Huge Crane Works at Highland

Supposedly one of the largest railroad cranes in the world was called in to help clear the tracks after the recent wreck of a freight train at Highland. Known as the X-13, it has a lift capacity of 250 tons at 17 feet 6 in. radius. The boom is 45 feet long and is rigged for three separate sets of blocks. Power is supplied by oil fired steam, and air operated outriggers and center support. The X-13 was built by the Industrial Brownhoist Corp., at Bay City, Mich., and was put in operation with the New York Central in December, 1948. (Freeman Photo).

Guards Kill 82Mutinous Prisoners

One Hundred - Twenty Internees Wounded in Sunday Outbreak on Pongam Island

Orders Are Defied

About 3,600 Take Part in Known Plan to Hold Mass Break

Pusan, Korea, Dec. 15 (AP)—Allied guards killed 82 mutinous Communist prisoners and wounded 120 on Pongam Island Sunday in quelling one of the bloodiest Red riots of the Korean war.

The allied prisoner of war command said two American and two South Korean soldiers were injured by rock-throwing Reds.

Authorities said the riot by about 3,600 die-hard civilian internees probably was part of a known Red plant to stage a mass breakout.

Col. C. V. Cadwell, head of the POW command, returned from Pongam—off the northwest tip of Koje Island—tonight and reported everything under control.

He praised the island commander, Lt. Col. George P. Miller, and said "Miller used sound judgment and did not use any more force than was necessary. He acted promptly. It could have been a very serious situation."

Orders Are Defied

The trouble started when prisoners in six compounds defied strict orders by organizing military drills and demonstrations.

Then they massed at the top of a high terrace. Three ranks of prisoners with locked arms defied advancing UN troops. Other prisoners behind them showered the guards with rocks.

Unable to advance, the guards fired warning shots and ordered the Reds to stop.

When they refused, the POW command said, "individual weapons were brought to bear . . . to prevent the entire mass from breaking out."

Presumably the weapons were rifles and carbines. The approach to the compounds is from below, preventing the effective use of concussion grenades. Tear gas grenades could not be used because a high wind was sweeping across the terraces.

Cadwell said the seriously injured prisoners were taken in small landing craft to a hospital on Koje Island, about a mile and a half to the east.

Were Former Inmates

The POW command said many of the mutineers were former inmates of Compound 62 of Kope, which erupted in bloody violence last Feb. 18.

Eighty-one Reds and one U. S. soldier were killed in that riot, which triggered a whole series of flare-ups and led to a stiff crackdown by Gen. Mark Clark, UN Far East commander.

Eisenhower Works For Positive Program

Witness Defies 'Shut Up' Threats

Electors to Cast 531 Ballots to Elect President

Eisenhower Due for 442-89 Victory but Electoral College Could Name Gov. Stevenson

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—The nation's 531 presidential electors today formally cast their votes to elect the next chief executive of the United States.

Under the Constitution, the Electoral College has the legal right if it wishes to elect Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate—or anyone else.

But pollsters would be taking almost no risk in predicting a 442 to 89 victory for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

That's the way the states' voters indicated they wanted their electors to vote today when Eisenhower, the Republican candidate, was swept into office by a record 33,927,549 votes to Stevenson's 27,311,316 last Nov. 4.

However, most electors are legally free to vote as they please. Few states bind electors by law to vote for the candidate who carries the state.

Wrong-Ways Are Rare

Nevertheless, wrong-way electors are extremely rare. Only three out of 14,379 electors in the nation's history have voted "for others than whom they were commissioned," according to a former Electoral College president.

Latest such case occurred in 1948 when Tennessee went for President Truman but one of the state's 12 electors cast his vote for J. Strong Thurmond, States Rights candidate.

Although today's vote is routine, it could have been highly significant if anything had chanced to happen to Eisenhower on his Korean trip.

In that case, the electoral college would be on its own in electing the nation's next President—and most authorities say it would not have been obligated to elect Sen. Richard Nixon, despite the fact he was elected vice-president Nov. 4.

After today, Nixon would automatically succeed for he, too, is being elected officially by the college.

The final step under the much

Former Stevedore Says Few Held Jobs Controls and Loans

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—A former longshoremen defied "shut up or die" threats today and testified that a handful of waterfront figures controlled employment and loan shark operations on New Jersey piers.

Anthony De Vincenzo, 43, of Hoboken, father of four children, told the New York State Crime Commission in an open hearing:

"You can't get a job on Hoboken piers until you see Borelli and he sends you to Florio."

He referred to Michael Borelli, Hoboken public safety commissioner, and Ed Florio, president of a local of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association.

Theodore Kiendl, counsel of the commission probing racketeering in the New York harbor area, questioned De Vincenzo on his statement.

"You can't get a job," he reiterated. "That's correct."

Fired From Job

De Vincenzo said he was fired from his own job as a hiring stevedore on a Hoboken pier through Borelli and Florio.

He said he had a disagreement with Florio and that the Jarka Corporation, his employer, one of the world's largest stevedoring firms, fired him on request by Borelli.

The witness testified that each Saturday morning 11 men who had the public loading concession at the Holland-American Line piers in Hoboken gave 10 per cent of total receipts to Florio and a Joe Branda, who was not further identified.

Public loading is the moving of goods from trucks to piers and vice versa, as contrasted with the longshore job of moving goods between the piers and ships.

Speaks of Loans

De Vincenzo said loans on the piers were controlled by Tony Auregemma, whom a commission attorney said was known sometimes as Tony Macaroni.

The witness said that if Auregemma "knew you, you paid five per cent for one week and after that 10 per cent."

"Tony never went wrong," said De Vincenzo. "He'd make sure the hiring foreman put them to work—or else. Tony was interested that those men went to work and he got paid."

D. Vincenzo identified Borelli, his first cousin, as a former bootlegger.

De Vincenzo said cooperation he refused to give Florio included refusing to work with "short gangs."

The "short gang" practice has been described previously as hiring fewer than the designated complement of men, with officials carrying "phantoms" on payrolls and collecting pay for the "phantoms."

Associated With Criminals

De Vincenzo said Florio and Borelli were associates of men with criminal records. He said they associated with these men at the Oxford democratic club in Hoboken and in Skelly's restaurant in the same city.

De Vincenzo identified the associates as including Johnny Romano, known as Joe Stonewall, a

Red China Blasts Hopes for Truce

Tokyo, Dec. 15 (AP) — Red China today blasted hopes for an early truce in Korea by angrily rejecting a United Nations peace appeal based on India's plan for an exchange of prisoners of war.

Peiping's reply came from Foreign Minister Chou En-lai, who called the UN General Assembly resolution illegal, unreasonable, unfair and degenerate.

He demanded that the U. S. resume truce talks at Panmunjom along the lines proposed by Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky. The talks have been suspended since October.

Navy Ship Breaks In Half on Rocks Of Leghorn Harbor

One of Crew Members Says 39 Others Are Safe in Stern Section of Vessel

Leghorn, Italy, Dec. 15 (AP)—The 3,800-ton U. S. navy refrigerator ship Grommet Reefer broke in half on the rocks of Leghorn harbor today with 40 men aboard. She was driven aground by gale whipped seas.

The first member of the crew was brought to safety in a breeches buoy nearly 12 hours later. He was Carl F. Treudler of Belleaire, Queens, N. Y., the ship's first engineer. Treudler said the other 39 crew members were uninjured.

Aboard Stern Section

The men are aboard the stern section of the ship, firmly lodged on rocks about 100 yards off shore. The bow half of the vessel drifted about the harbor for several hours and then crashed on rocks nearby.

Treudler, who came ashore to help rescue operations, said the remaining crew members feared the stern half of the ship would topple over. Rescue workers ashore, including crews from three U. S. navy repair ships, said there was no immediate danger, however. The ship's cargo includes seven tons of turkeys for soldier dinners in Austria and Italy.

Treudler swung ashore in a breeches buoy strung between the ship and a tall mast in front of the Italian naval academy, located directly ashore from the wrecked ship. He and the navy crews were attempting to improve the buoy before removing the remaining crew members.

Darkness Closes In

Meanwhile, darkness closed in on the ship, continuously pounded by huge waves driven by winds estimated at about 50 miles an hour.

The ship, under contract to the U. S. navy administered sea transportation service, arrived in Leghorn early Sunday from New York via Casablanca. It hauled up anchor early this morning to move into dock.

Treudler said gale force winds struck about the same time. The ship's power was inadequate to buck the storm, he said, and the vessel crashed on the rocks. It broke in half shortly afterward.

General Has New Feeling For Future

President-Elect Declares U. S. Must Do Things to Induce Desires for Peace

Limits His Report

Some Things, He Says, Cannot Be Given Out Publicly

New York, Dec. 15—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower goes back to work in his New York headquarters today, prepared to map "positive programs" for bringing peace in Korea.

He said he returned from his trip to the war zone with new confidence about the outlook for speeding a satisfactory solution.

In two public statements yesterday, the general expressed optimism.

At the same time, however, he repeated his view that no simple formula is at hand, and he said patience, foresight and common sense will be needed in finding one.

Eisenhower gave no indication when he plans to meet with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

MacArthur declared in a speech in New York ten days ago: "I am confident there is a clear and definite solution to the Korean conflict." Several days later, Eisenhower messaged MacArthur that he would like to talk with him, and MacArthur replied that he would be agreeable. The two generals may meet here this week.

Seen as Starting-Point

The President-elect said on his return here yesterday that his trip was a starting-point for his own planning. At LaGuardia Field he said:

"Everyone of us thinks we have learned something to make this expedition a sort of starting-place from where we are going to plan the programs we are going to adopt.

"And we expect them to be positive programs. Because you know, my friends, just because one side wants peace doesn't make peace. We must go ahead and do things that induce the others to want peace also."

This phrase—"do things that induce the others to want peace also"—was contained in an extemporaneous statement at the airport.

Eisenhower also had a prepared statement for reporters when his big Constellation landed. In that, he said something that sounded similar to the off-the-cuff remark. He said:

"We face an enemy whom we cannot hope to impress by words, however eloquent, but only by deeds—executed under circumstances of our own choosing."

Gives No Indication

He gave no indication of what he meant. On the contrary, he said he is limited in what he can report publicly. "As we all know," he added, "certain aspects of battle problems cannot ever be discussed publicly."

The general tone of both statements, however, was a qualified optimism. "All of us have long realized," he said in the prepared statement, "that there can be no simple formula for bringing a swift, victorious end to this war. But at the very least, that knowledge prepares us for whatever tough tasks lie ahead. Such spiritual preparedness, in our embattled world, is as necessary as physical armament. A free citizenry, expecting its soldiers honorably to face the enemy, must itself, honestly face reality.

Confidence Is Renewed

"I return, however, with a renewed confidence that a satisfactory solution in Korea can be speeded. I know it will demand common sense and care, much foresight and much patience. But not more in Korea than anywhere else in the world is honorable peace beyond the power of free men to achieve when they pursue it intelligently and energetically."

In another passage he said: "I believe the architects of aggression can be made to realize that it would be fateful folly to ignite other conflagrations like the Korean conflict elsewhere in the world."

The general said the purpose of his trip was to look, listen and learn.

He mentioned the civil and

Angry Parents End Death Pond Peril Near Levittown

Men, Teenagers, Women Do Variety of Jobs to Fill Sand Pit Which Took 2 Lives

Levittown, Dec. 15 (AP)—An army of Levittown parents—with shovels and bulldozers for weapons, the lives of their children for a spur—early today erased "Death Pond" from their community's backyard.

For 16 hours straight they had toiled, many on their lone day off from work. Their muscles ached and their hands were sore. But they plodded wearily home with fear no longer gnawing at their hearts.

It was a fear they first felt last Monday when a landslide at a rain-filled excavation smothered a 7-year-old boy. It was a fear intensified Friday after a four-year-old boy drowned in the same pit.

Yesterday, Levittown parents grabbed shovels and marched on the pit, which is just across this Long Island community's boundary in Hicksville, N. Y. The pit, used to catch rain water, was part of a housing development construction job.

Pump Draws Water

The men and teen-agers took their shovels and attacked the 30-foot sand pile while a small pump was installed to drain the 15-foot deep, 72-by-21-foot hole alongside the pile.

Soon someone spotted two bull-

Freezing Weather Recorded in South

(By The Associated Press)

Sub-freezing weather was the rule in much of the south early today while in the northeast heavy snow and rain storms moved into Canada, leaving 22 deaths and tangled communications in their wake.

Gordonsville, Va., was the coldest town in the south, with a 10 above zero reading. Pensacola, Fla., registered 27, though early morning readings in the 30's and 40's were more common farther south in the state.

Snow flurries were reported at three places in Florida Sunday—an extremely rare occurrence.

In the northeast, weekend storms hit New England and the Buffalo, N. Y., area, causing 22 deaths and disrupting transportation and communications.

The New England storm brought up to 22 inches of snow in northern Vermont while about 12 inches fell in some sections of New York state.

While the weather bureau forecast more light snow flurries for parts of New England today, temperature rises of 20 to 30 degrees were reported in the northern great plains.

Ridgway Insists NATO Approve Construction

Ministers of Atlantic Pact Organization Postpone Action on That as Well as Selection of Naval Commander

Paris, Dec. 15 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway insisted in a speech today that the ministers of the Atlantic Pact nations approve his 428-million-dollar military construction program.

But the 30 ministers postponed any action on the program at least for today. The ministers also postponed for another day taking any action on naming a commander for the new NATO Mediterranean naval command. They heard Premier Alcide De Gasperi of Italy call for a united propaganda campaign against the Communists.

Russia is doing just that against the western democracies, the Italian premier said in a speech at the opening meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's top council.

"Should it not be necessary for the free countries," he demanded, "rich in ideas and political experience, to express their ideas and implement them in common?"

'Safe' Stage Reported

Preceding De Gasperi, the council chairman, Danish Foreign Minister Ole Bjorn Kraft, told the ministers "we are now approaching the stage at which we feel safe from outward aggression." He warned, however, that "the picture may change very suddenly" and that the NATO goal of a "balance (with the Soviet bloc) has not yet been created."

Chief item before the current council meeting is a request for approval of a 428-million-dollar program of military construction in Europe during 1953.

The building program and the naming of a new Mediterranean naval command were expected to be the only major decisions of the 14-nation North Atlantic council of foreign, finance and defense ministers during their four-day meeting opening here today.

With the British pushing for his appointment, Adm. Earl Mountbatten, commander of Britain's naval forces in the Mediterranean, is slated to be assigned the NATO duty of preserving the vital allied communication line through the strategic southern sea.

The council program today included a public meeting reserved mainly for welcoming speeches, followed by a business session behind closed doors late in the afternoon.

Christmas Mail Is Approaching Peak

Postmaster Advises Early Sending of Packages and Cards

Postmaster William R. Kraft said today he expected the Christmas mail rush to reach its peak locally by Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

Outgoing mail, especially that for distant states, has already been noticeably heavy, and starting today the incoming mail was due to increase in volume.

The postmaster reminded local residents that they will have only three days left after the end of this week before the holiday, and he suggested that all Christmas mailing should be finished this week.

The local postal system has been handling a heavy volume of "wholesale" mail addressed to points out of the city.

About 12 extra men have been employed to date to handle the rush. More will be added gradually as they are needed and it is expected that about 40 will be employed during the last two or three days of the week.

46 Take Army Exams

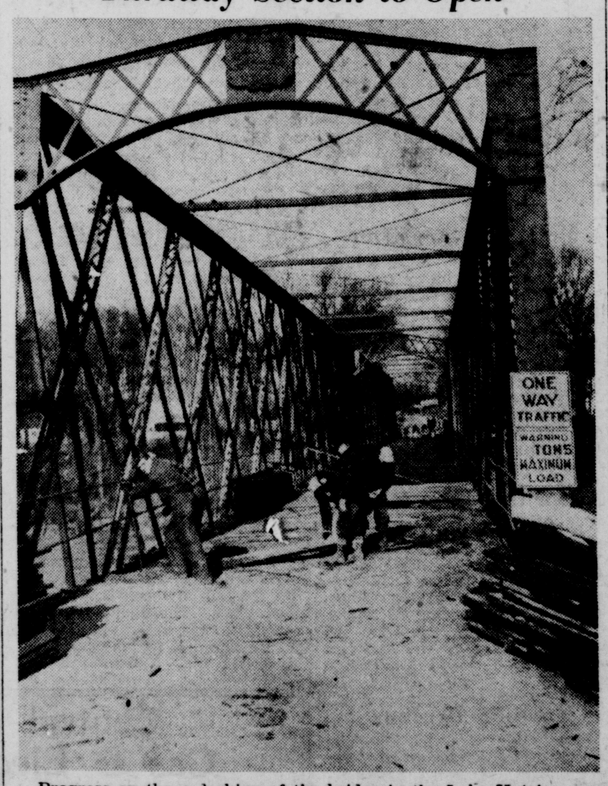

Local draft boards sent 46 men to Albany today for physical examinations. Of the total 13 were sent by Local Draft Board 18 (city) and 33 by Local Board 19 (county). On the next examination date, Jan. 2, the county board will send 49 and the city will send 27. Both boards are scheduled to induct men Jan. 19.

Eight Cars Derailed

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 15 (AP)—Eight cars of the Milwaukee Railroad's crack Hiawatha-Olympian were derailed near here early today. Two women were reported hospitalized with minor injuries. The westbound train hit a broken rail near Plummer, Idaho, the dispatcher's office here reported. Three coaches, the lounge car, a baggage car, two mail cars and the diner left the tracks.

Thruway Section to Open

Progress on the redecking of the bridge in the Lake Katrine area in preparation for opening the Saugerties-Sawkill strip of the New York State Thruway, indicated an opening no later than Wednesday night, the county highway department reported today.

Last week's rain delayed work on the project, and before that, redecking of the bridge was held up by a delay in shipping the lumber. It was indicated today that approaches to the super highway will be patrolled or guarded to prevent the travel of trucks or other heavy vehicles over the section between Saugerties and Sawkill.

Little Tax Relief Likely Before 1954, Survey Shows

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—The new Congress, although wistfully eyeing a tax cut for the home-folks next year, seems to be more anxious to chop federal spending and balance the budget first.

The result could be only modest tax reductions, if any, before 1954.

That's the prospect reflected in an Associated Press survey of incoming congressmen throughout the country.

The survey showed one thing for sure: on the touchy subject of taxes, congressmen's views are scattered in all directions.

Scores of lawmakers indicated they feel keenly a voters' protest against high taxes—a protest fanned by President-elect Eisenhower during the campaign. But Eisenhower hasn't taken his stand on any specific tax cuts yet. And the absence of cues from the new White House contributed to a lack of any overwhelming trend toward any single program among the 268 senators and representatives participating in the poll.

In the House, where tax bills must start, 83 lawmakers lined up more or less positively for tax cuts now.

But 27 House members said tax reductions now are unlikely or unwise; and 68 said the budget should be balanced before Congress starts chipping away at federal income. That adds up to 95 representatives — about 54 per cent of those taking a stand—who want to go slow, or not go at all, on revenue cuts.

The Senate was even more cautious. Only 10 senators took an

Former Stevedore Says Few Held Jobs Controls and Loans

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—A former longshoremen defied "shut up or die" threats today and testified that a handful of waterfront figures controlled employment and loan shark operations on New Jersey piers.

Anthony De Vincenzo, 43, of Hoboken, father of four children, told the New York State Crime Commission in an open hearing:

"You can't get a job on Hoboken piers until you see Borelli and he sends you to Florio."

He referred to Michael Borelli, Hoboken public safety commissioner, and Ed Florio, president of a local of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association.

"And we expect them to be positive programs. Because you know, my friends, just because one side wants peace doesn't make peace. We must go ahead and do things that induce the others to want peace also."

This phrase—"do things that induce the others to want peace also"—was contained in an extemporaneous statement at the airport.

Eisenhower also had a prepared statement for reporters when his big Constellation landed. In that, he said something that sounded similar to the off-the-cuff remark. He said:

"We face an enemy whom we cannot hope to impress by words, however eloquent, but only by deeds—executed under circumstances of our own choosing."

Gives No Indication

He gave no indication of what he meant. On the contrary, he said he is limited in what he can report publicly. "As we all know," he added, "certain aspects of battle problems cannot ever be discussed publicly."

The general tone of both statements, however, was a qualified optimism. "All of us have long realized," he said in the prepared statement, "that there can be no simple formula for bringing a swift, victorious end to this war. But at the very least, that knowledge prepares us for whatever tough tasks lie ahead. Such spiritual preparedness, in our embattled world, is as necessary as physical armament. A free citizenry, expecting its soldiers honorably to face the enemy, must itself, honestly face reality.

Confidence Is Renewed

"I return, however, with a renewed confidence that a satisfactory solution in Korea can be speeded. I know it will demand common sense and care, much foresight and much patience. But not more in Korea than anywhere else in the world is honorable peace beyond the power of free men to achieve when they pursue it intelligently and energetically."

In another passage he said: "I believe the architects of aggression can be made to realize that it would be fateful folly to ignite other conflagrations like the Korean conflict elsewhere in the world."

The general said the purpose of his trip was to look, listen and learn.

He mentioned the civil and

Levittown, Dec. 15 (AP)—An army of Levittown parents—with shovels and bulldozers for weapons, the lives of their children for a spur—early today erased "Death Pond" from their community's backyard.

For 16 hours straight they had toiled, many on their lone day off from work. Their muscles ached and their hands were sore. But they plodded wearily home with fear no longer gnawing at their hearts.

It was a fear they first felt last Monday when a landslide at a rain-filled excavation smothered a 7-year-old boy. It was a fear intensified Friday after a four-year-old boy drowned in the same pit.

Yesterday, Levittown parents grabbed shovels and marched on the pit, which is just across this Long Island community's boundary in Hicksville, N. Y. The pit, used to catch rain water, was part of a housing development construction job.

Pump Draws Water

The men and teen-agers took their shovels and attacked the 30-foot sand pile while a small pump was installed to drain the 15-foot deep, 72-by-21-foot hole alongside the pile.

Soon someone spotted two bull-

Freezing Weather Recorded in South

(By The Associated Press)

Sub-freezing weather was the rule in much of the south early today while in the northeast heavy snow and rain storms moved into Canada, leaving 22 deaths and tangled communications in their wake.

Gordonsville, Va., was the coldest town in the south, with a 10 above zero reading. Pensacola, Fla., registered 27, though early morning readings in the 30's and 40's were more common farther south in the state.

Snow flurries were reported at three places in Florida Sunday—an extremely rare occurrence.

In the northeast, weekend storms hit New England and the Buffalo, N. Y., area, causing 22 deaths and disrupting transportation and communications.

The New England storm brought up to 22 inches of snow in northern Vermont while about 12 inches fell in some sections of New York state.

While the weather bureau forecast more light snow flurries for parts of New England today, temperature rises of 20 to 30 degrees were reported in the northern great plains.

Ridgway Insists NATO Approve Construction

Ministers of Atlantic Pact Organization Postpone Action on That as Well as Selection of Naval Commander

Paris, Dec. 15 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway insisted in a speech today that the ministers of the Atlantic Pact nations approve his 428-million-dollar military construction program.

But the 30 ministers postponed any action on the program at least for today. The ministers also postponed for another day taking any action on naming a commander for the new NATO Mediterranean naval command. They heard Premier Alcide De Gasperi of Italy call for a united propaganda campaign against the Communists.

Russia is doing just that against the western democracies, the Italian premier said in a speech at the opening meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's top council.

"Should it not be necessary for the free countries," he demanded, "rich in ideas and political experience, to express their ideas and implement them in common?"

'Safe' Stage Reported

Preceding De Gasperi, the council chairman, Danish Foreign Minister Ole Bjorn Kraft, told the ministers "we are now approaching the stage at which we feel safe from outward aggression." He warned, however, that "the picture may change very suddenly" and that the NATO goal of a "balance (with the Soviet bloc) has not yet been created."

Chief item before the current council meeting is a request for approval of a 428-million-dollar program of military construction in Europe during 1953.

The building program and the naming of a new Mediterranean naval command were expected to be the only major decisions of the 14-nation North Atlantic council of foreign, finance and defense ministers during their four-day meeting opening here today.

With the British pushing for his appointment, Adm. Earl Mountbatten, commander of Britain's naval forces in the Mediterranean, is slated to be assigned the NATO duty of preserving the vital allied communication line through the strategic southern sea.

The council program today included a public meeting reserved mainly for welcoming speeches, followed by a business session behind closed doors late in the afternoon.

Christmas Mail Is Approaching Peak

Postmaster Advises Early Sending of Packages and Cards

Postmaster William R. Kraft said today he expected the Christmas mail rush to reach its peak locally by Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

Outgoing mail, especially that for distant states, has already been noticeably heavy, and starting today the incoming mail was due to increase in volume.

The postmaster reminded local residents that they will have only three days left after the end of this week before the holiday, and he suggested that all Christmas mailing should be finished this week.

The local postal system has been handling a heavy volume of "wholesale" mail addressed to points out of the city.

About 12 extra men have been employed to date to handle the rush. More will be added gradually as they are needed and it is expected that about 40 will be employed during the last two or three days of the week.

46 Take Army Exams

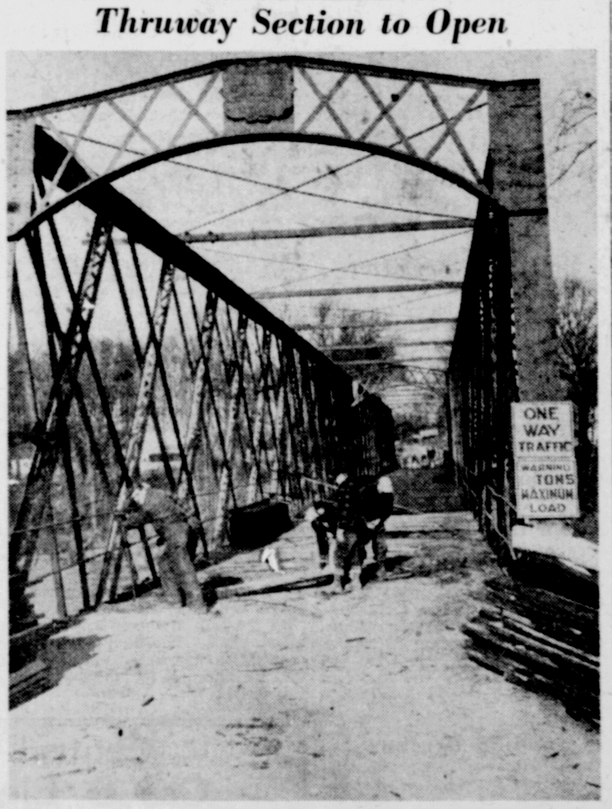

Local draft boards sent 46 men to Albany today for physical examinations. Of the total 13 were sent by Local Draft Board 18 (city) and 33 by Local Board 19 (county). On the next examination date, Jan. 2, the county board will send 49 and the city will send 27. Both boards are scheduled to induct men Jan. 19.

Eight Cars Derailed

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 15 (AP)—Eight cars of the Milwaukee Railroad's crack Hiawatha-Olympian were derailed near here early today. Two women were reported hospitalized with minor injuries. The westbound train hit a broken rail near Plummer, Idaho, the dispatcher's office here reported. Three coaches, the lounge car, a baggage car, two mail cars and the diner left the tracks.

Thruway Section to Open

Progress on the redecking of the bridge in the Lake Katrine area in preparation for opening the Saugerties-Sawkill strip of the New York State Thruway, indicated an opening no later than Wednesday night, the county highway department reported today.

Last week's rain delayed work on the project, and before that, redecking of the bridge was held up by a delay in shipping the lumber. It was indicated today that approaches to the super highway will be patrolled or guarded to prevent the travel of trucks or other heavy vehicles over the section between Saugerties and Sawkill.

Little Tax Relief Likely Before 1954, Survey Shows

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—The new Congress, although wistfully eyeing a tax cut for the home-folks next year, seems to be more anxious to chop federal spending and balance the budget first.

The result could be only modest tax reductions, if any, before 1954.

That's the prospect reflected in an Associated Press survey of incoming congressmen throughout the country.

The survey showed one thing for sure: on the touchy subject of taxes, congressmen's views are scattered in all directions.

Scores of lawmakers indicated they feel keenly a voters' protest against high taxes—a protest fanned by President-elect Eisenhower during the campaign. But Eisenhower hasn't taken his stand on any specific tax cuts yet. And the absence of cues from the new White House contributed to a lack of any overwhelming trend toward any single program among the 268 senators and representatives participating in the poll.

In the House, where tax bills must start, 83 lawmakers lined up more or less positively for tax cuts now.

But 27 House members said tax reductions now are unlikely or unwise; and 68 said the budget should be balanced before Congress starts chipping away at federal income. That adds up to 95 representatives — about 54 per cent of those taking a stand—who want to go slow, or not go at all, on revenue cuts.

The Senate was even more cautious. Only 10 senators took an

Carolers Welcome Ike; Missed Yule Songs in Hawaii

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower sang Christmas carols last night at the doorway of his Columbia University residence in a traditional candlelight ceremony dedicated to the head of the university.

Twenty-two students of Barnard College, a woman's unit of Columbia, began singing carols outside the President-elect's home.

Eisenhower, coatless and hatless, came out to greet the students in the chilly air and join in the singing. His wife threw on a coat and came out to hum along with them.

Florence Sloan, 21-year-old Barnard senior from Greenwich, Conn., asked Eisenhower if he had a favorite carol.

'Nice Homecoming'

"What was that one we heard on television tonight?" the general asked his wife. Prompted by the girls, he decided it was The Night Before Christmas, and it was sung. A policeman assigned to the outside of the residence joined in.

The general, who returned yesterday from a trip to the Korean front, told the students: "You certainly have made this a nice homecoming."

"Now is the time for the fruit cake," he said, apparently referring to the custom of rewarding carolers with cake. Smiling at the girls, he told them "I hope you all have A-pluses."

Juidth Leverone, 21, of Boston, asked him if he wanted to hear any other favorite carol. He requested O Come, All Ye Faithful.

By this time, 10 neighbors had joined in the singing, which was accompanied throughout by a student accordionist, Alexandria Comini, 19, Dallas.

Noting that Eisenhower wore no overcoat, one of the students said "if the President of the United States has a cold tomorrow, it's our fault now."

Missed Yule Songs

"You know," he said, "the night before last I was in Honolulu. I was sitting in a yard when a group came up to sing. They sang all about the beaches and the moon, but not one Christmas song, and I missed it."

After more Christmas songs requested by Eisenhower, some Columbia songs and God Bless America, secret service men suggested that the singing end, because the girls and neighbors were drawing closer to the Eisenhowers.

"We're going to miss you. You've been a good neighbor," one of the group called out to Eisenhower, who is on leave as Columbia president and whose resignation becomes effective Jan. 19, the day before his inauguration.

"We're going to miss you, too," Mrs. Eisenhower replied as she and the general went inside.

20,000 Quit Jobs

Khartoum, Sudan, Dec. 15 (AP)—About 20,000 railway workers in the Sudan walked off the job yesterday because management refused to allow them a full hour for breakfast. The government-owned railroad was willing to extend the present half hour to 45 minutes but workers turned the offer down and called a three-day strike. Rail traffic was paralyzed.

Lost Wheel Blamed For Accident, Fire

An accident and a truck fire three miles apart on Route 9W early today were attributed to the same cause by state police who investigated.

Troopers of the Highland station were notified at 5:30 a. m. today that an automobile owned and driven by Paul Peszerdick, 35, of Jackson Heights, went out of control and off the east side of the highway after striking a truck wheel and tire which was lying on the pavement.

The truck which lost the wheel one part of a dual wheel—continued on south, troopers said, and at the intersection of Routes 44 and 55 three miles from the point of the first accident the remaining wheel overheated and ignited. The Highland Fire Department was called and extinguished the fire.

The truck, owned by John Daly of Amsterdam, was driven by Thomas Berinati, 45, also of Amsterdam, troopers said. No personal injuries were reported.

Retired Hotel Man Is Suicide Victim

Shappee's body was found Saturday noon in his second-floor room in the hotel on Main street, New Paltz, which he operated for many years as the Palmer House.

Moon's Sentence Suspended; Must Make Restitution

William C. Moon, 47, of the Rosendale road, one of three persons arraigned before City Judge Raymond J. Mino Nov. 13 on charges of violating the state labor law by fradulently obtaining unemployment benefit checks, was given a suspended sentence of 90 days in city court today.

Moon changed his plea from innocent to guilty when he appeared before Judge Mino Dec. 1, and sentence was put over until today. The sentence was suspended on provision that the defendant make restitution.

Attorney Fred Stang appeared for Moon.

Sidney M. Tannen, special agent for the state labor department, said he investigated and made the complaints resulting in the arrests. Charles G. Coffin, assistant attorney general, was in charge of prosecution.

The other two, Emma Gordon, 49, of 1-3 Canal street, and Eugene Nicholas, 36, of West Shokan, pleaded not guilty last month, and were given suspended sentences of 30 days each on provision they made restitution. All were reported as self-employed.

Attorney Thomas Plunket appeared for Strother and John Larkin represented the district attorney's office, which consented to the lesser plea.

Charles Reichel, 42, RD, Stone Ridge, who was arrested early today on a third degree assault charge, was given a suspended sentence of 180 days in jail.

Officers Raymond Wells and William Norton answered a call to an uptown tavern at 2:20 a. m., following which Reichel was arrested by his wife, Kathryn.

Brooklyn Man Slain in Jersey

Newark, N. J., Dec. 15 (AP)—A 32-year-old Brooklyn, N. Y., man, who police said has had several brushes with the law, was hurled from a car last night and shot to death, gangland fashion.

Four bullets were pumped into Paul Panepinto, whose body was found sprawled in the gutter by a watchman who heard him yell "Help, police," before he was slain.

The watchman, Dymitri Makar, 56, told police he saw the victim flung on the black convertible coupe in a dimly lighted section of Mott street near Raymond Boulevard, around the corner from the Third Precinct police station. The car, he said, bore New York license plates.

Had Long Police Record

Lt. Leon Neidorf of the prosecutor's office said Panepinto had a long police record in New York and New Jersey. He said Panepinto was arrested here in 1944 on charges of transporting women for immoral purposes, but the charges were dismissed for lack of evidence. Neidorf said Panepinto also was suspected of a 1944 murder in Brooklyn, but that homicide charges were dropped.

The ride victim's father, Anthony, and brother, Philip, arrived early today to identify the body.

Medical Campaign Hit at Meeting Of Chiropractors

"The over one million people in the state of New York who utilize the services of chiropratic for some of their health needs should have their rights protected by law," Clifford J. Bell, chiropractor, of Kingston, said at a meeting of the Hudson Valley District Chiropractic Society in this city Sunday.

Replying to the state Medical Society's campaign against the licensing of chiropractors, Bell noted that the practice has been accepted for over half a century and is licensed by the legislatures of 44 states.

Says Fact Overlooked

Quoting Dr. Edward T. Wentworth of Rochester, president of the New York State Medical Society, as saying that "the only form of legislative control of chiropractic which makes sense is to prohibit its practice because it is a fraud," Bell said, "It seems that Dr. Wentworth overlooks the fact the vast majority of chiropractic patients have had experience with his profession. Had they been satisfied they would not have turned to the chiropractor for help."

After the meeting, the chiropractors joined the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary at the Bell's home for their annual dinner and Christmas party. Attending were Chiropractors Clifford J. Bell, John MacKinnon, William Pretsch, Kingston; Dorland Eighmie, Poughkeepsie; Byron E. Whitford, Walden; Joseph Killeon, John Killeon, Robert Jamieson, Frank J. Maniscalco, Newburgh; Frederick Cauer, Woodstock, and Grand J. Edison, Middletown.

Series of Actions Taken Up in Court

A series of actions arising out of an accident south of Ellenville on August 24, 1951, was taken up in Supreme Court this morning before Justice Elsworth and a jury.

A car owned by Henry Kuykendall and driven by Harry Eddy was proceeding over route 209 south en route to Middletown. The car was owned by Kuykendall and loaned to Eddy while his car was being repaired at the Kuykendall garage in Ellenville. Mrs. Eddy and another man were also occupants of the Eddy car.

Coming north on 209 was a car operated by Morton Pader, who was accompanied by his wife and a child. The cars collided near the entrance to the Nevele Hotel where the Pader family were en route.

Injuries, Cash Sought

Mr. and Mrs. Pader were injured, as was Mrs. Eddy. They bring actions to recover for injuries. Mr. and Mrs. Pader sue Mr. Kuykendall and Mr. Eddy and Kuykendall and Eddy sue Pader.

In the actions are eight attorneys involved in appearances for various persons.

Lawrence Levine appears for Harry Eddy in an action for damages against Kuykendall and Pader and Cashin & Ewig appear for Kuykendall as a defendant in that action. Cashin & Ewig also appear for Kuykendall as a plaintiff. Abraham Streifer and Louis Berger as well as Robert Ortale appear for Mr. and Mrs. Pader as plaintiffs. Joseph Kooperman appears for Mrs. Eddy in an action for injuries and John Bonomi appears as counsel for the Eddys in the actions in which they are defendants.

So complicated were the issues and the appearance of counsel in the actions, that examination of prospective jurors proceeded slowly during the morning session.

Following the call and addition of cases to the "ready" calendar, Justice Elsworth announced there would be no further additions to the ready calendar at this term.

Carolers Welcome Ike; Missed Yule Songs in Hawaii

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower sang Christmas carols last night at the doorway of his Columbia University residence in a traditional candlelight ceremony dedicated to the head of the university.

Twenty-two students of Barnard College, a woman's unit of Columbia, began singing carols outside the President-elect's home.

Eisenhower, coatless and hatless, came out to greet the students in the chilly air and join in the singing. His wife threw on a coat and came out to hum along with them.

Florence Sloan, 21-year-old Barnard senior from Greenwich, Conn., asked Eisenhower if he had a favorite carol.

'Nice Homecoming'

"What was that one we heard on television tonight?" the general asked his wife. Prompted by the girls, he decided it was The Night Before Christmas, and it was sung. A policeman assigned to the outside of the residence joined in.

The general, who returned yesterday from a trip to the Korean front, told the students: "You certainly have made this a nice homecoming."

"Now is the time for the fruit cake," he said, apparently referring to the custom of rewarding carolers with cake. Smiling at the girls, he told them "I hope you all have A-pluses."

Juidth Leverone, 21, of Boston, asked him if he wanted to hear any other favorite carol. He requested O Come, All Ye Faithful.

By this time, 10 neighbors had joined in the singing, which was accompanied throughout by a student accordionist, Alexandria Comini, 19, Dallas.

Noting that Eisenhower wore no overcoat, one of the students said "if the President of the United States has a cold tomorrow, it's our fault now."

Missed Yule Songs

"You know," he said, "the night before last I was in Honolulu. I was sitting in a yard when a group came up to sing. They sang all about the beaches and the moon, but not one Christmas song, and I missed it."

After more Christmas songs requested by Eisenhower, some Columbia songs and God Bless America, secret service men suggested that the singing end, because the girls and neighbors were drawing closer to the Eisenhowers.

"We're going to miss you. You've been a good neighbor," one of the group called out to Eisenhower, who is on leave as Columbia president and whose resignation becomes effective Jan. 19, the day before his inauguration.

"We're going to miss you, too." Mrs. Eisenhower replied as she and the general went inside.

An accident and a truck fire three miles apart on Route 9W early today were attributed to the same cause by state police who investigated.

Troopers of the Highland station were notified at 5:30 a. m. today that an automobile owned and driven by Paul Peszerdick, 35, of Jackson Heights, went out of control and off the east side of the highway after striking a truck wheel and tire which was lying on the pavement.

Brooklyn Man Slain in Jersey

Newark, N. J., Dec. 15 (AP)—A 32-year-old Brooklyn, N. Y., man, who police said has had several brushes with the law, was hurled from a car last night and shot to death, gangland fashion.

Four bullets were pumped into Paul Panepinto, whose body was found sprawled in the gutter by a watchman who heard him yell "Help, police," before he was slain.

The watchman, Dymitri Makar, 56, told police he saw the victim flung on the black convertible coupe in a dimly lighted section of Mott street near Raymond Boulevard, around the corner from the Third Precinct police station. The car, he said, bore New York license plates.

Had Long Police Record

Lt. Leon Neidorf of the prosecutor's office said Panepinto had a long police record in New York and New Jersey. He said Panepinto was arrested here in 1944 on charges of transporting women for immoral purposes, but the charges were dismissed for lack of evidence. Neidorf said Panepinto also was suspected of a 1944 murder in Brooklyn, but that homicide charges were dropped.

The ride victim's father, Anthony, and brother, Philip, arrived early today to identify the body.

Medical Campaign Hit at Meeting Of Chiropractors

"The over one million people in the state of New York who utilize the services of chiropratic for some of their health needs should have their rights protected by law," Clifford J. Bell, chiropractor, of Kingston, said at a meeting of the Hudson Valley District Chiropractic Society in this city Sunday.

Replying to the state Medical Society's campaign against the licensing of chiropractors, Bell noted that the practice has been accepted for over half a century and is licensed by the legislatures of 44 states.

Says Fact Overlooked

Quoting Dr. Edward T. Wentworth of Rochester, president of the New York State Medical Society, as saying that "the only form of legislative control of chiropractic which makes sense is to prohibit its practice because it is a fraud," Bell said, "It seems that Dr. Wentworth overlooks the fact the vast majority of chiropractic patients have had experience with his profession. Had they been satisfied they would not have turned to the chiropractor for help."

After the meeting, the chiropractors joined the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary at the Bell's home for their annual dinner and Christmas party. Attending were Chiropractors Clifford J. Bell, John MacKinnon, William Pretsch, Kingston; Dorland Eighmie, Poughkeepsie; Byron E. Whitford, Walden; Joseph Killeon, John Killeon, Robert Jamieson, Frank J. Maniscalco, Newburgh; Frederick Cauer, Woodstock, and Grand J. Edison, Middletown.

Series of Actions Taken Up in Court

A series of actions arising out of an accident south of Ellenville on August 24, 1951, was taken up in Supreme Court this morning before Justice Elsworth and a jury.

A car owned by Henry Kuykendall and driven by Harry Eddy was proceeding over route 209 south en route to Middletown. The car was owned by Kuykendall and loaned to Eddy while his car was being repaired at the Kuykendall garage in Ellenville. Mrs. Eddy and another man were also occupants of the Eddy car.

Coming north on 209 was a car operated by Morton Pader, who was accompanied by his wife and a child. The cars collided near the entrance to the Nevele Hotel where the Pader family were en route.

Injuries, Cash Sought

Mr. and Mrs. Pader were injured, as was Mrs. Eddy. They bring actions to recover for injuries. Mr. and Mrs. Pader sue Mr. Kuykendall and Mr. Eddy and Kuykendall and Eddy sue Pader.

In the actions are eight attorneys involved in appearances for various persons.

Lawrence Levine appears for Harry Eddy in an action for damages against Kuykendall and Pader and Cashin & Ewig appear for Kuykendall as a defendant in that action. Cashin & Ewig also appear for Kuykendall as a plaintiff. Abraham Streifer and Louis Berger as well as Robert Ortale appear for Mr. and Mrs. Pader as plaintiffs. Joseph Kooperman appears for Mrs. Eddy in an action for injuries and John Bonomi appears as counsel for the Eddys in the actions in which they are defendants.

So complicated were the issues and the appearance of counsel in the actions, that examination of prospective jurors proceeded slowly during the morning session.

Following the call and addition of cases to the "ready" calendar, Justice Elsworth announced there would be no further additions to the ready calendar at this term.

Scotch Raise Reindeer

New York (AP)—Scotland is raising its own reindeer in the hope of supplementing its food supply, reports the British Information Service here. The experiment was started this year with eight reindeer living off the sparsely vegetated moors of Northern Scotland, where other cattle would perish. The herd, three of whom have died, is expected to increase the milk and meat supply. Ten more Norwegian reindeer are to be imported, the report said.

Religious Leader To Write Special Christmas Message

DR. R. W. SOCKMAN

Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, distinguished American churchman, will write a special Christmas message to readers of The Freeman. The message called The Story That Never Grows Old, will be in six daily installments, beginning Thursday, Dec. 18.

The noted pastor of Christ Methodist Church in New York reaches a national audience through his widely read newspaper column, A Lift for Living, and his National Radio Pulpit broadcast every Sunday from coast to coast.

He receives an average of more than 5,000 and sometimes as many as 25,000 letters a week from his huge flock, from people of all faiths.

In addition, Dr. Sockman has written 14 inspirational books and countless magazine articles, and is a popular lecturer.

He recently refused, for the third time, the bishopric to which he was elected by his church. He gave as his reason that he felt that a bishop is too hampered by administrative work to be able to tend to his congregation as well as an ordinary pastor.

Besides his lecturing, writing, radio program and the duties of his congregation, Dr. Sockman is a professor at Union Theological Seminary in New York.

He received his Doctor of Philosophy degree from Columbia University, and has been awarded several honorary degrees.

"The Christmas story," said Dr. Sockman of his Yule message, "is indeed 'the story that never grows old.' That is why I don't hesitate to re-tell this year for the thousandth time. The message of Christmas is a precious annual gift to this troubled world."

Read Dr. Sockman's warm and appealing Christmas message, beginning in Thursday's issue of The Freeman.

Japanese Swords Returned

Tokyo (AP) — Two prized Japanese swords 900 years old have been returned to the Hakozaki Hachiman shrine on the southern island of Kyushu. The Nippon Times says the swords were taken to the United States as souvenirs by U. S. soldiers but were returned with the help of the U. S. military government, which realized their historic value.

RELIABLE RULE OF LIFE

Years ago when youngsters started school one of the first things they learned to do was to use a ruler to draw a straight line. On some of these rulers, as we remember them after all these years, was printed the simple legend, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you." Some of the methods of teaching have changed with the years but we like to believe that the philosophy of the Golden Rule still underlines all the things taught the young people in our schools.

People today are more sophisticated than they were a few decades ago. Mottos and sayings are not invested with the same importance that they once were. Yet every day in the papers we read of efforts by good men to find formulas to accomplish certain things in everyday living. Diplomats seek a formula for the end of the fighting in Korea and for a lasting peace; labor and management seek a formula by which they can cooperate to end strikes and ensure industrial goodwill; men in public life seek codes of ethics for public servants so that those on whom the public trust is laid will serve it honestly and well.

It is proper that men should look for new ways to live together better. But perhaps if those goals of seeking men are ever reached it will be discovered that the simple truth of the Golden Rule is what they were looking for all along. Certainly no harmony among men on any level is possible unless that rule is in effect.

IS CHINA TURNING WEST?

Experts in foreign affairs think they scent a possible rift or potential rupture between Red China and Russia. Perhaps this may be so.

It would explain the sudden blasting of India and denouncing of her peace plan by Andrei Vishinsky in a surprising burst of anger. India is one of the countries being ardently courted by Communist Russia and embarrassing India would be a high price to pay for any diplomatic move. Apparently Russia believes keeping Red China safe behind the Iron Curtain is well worth the cost of alienating India whose possible conversion is questionable.

If a possible break between Russia and her biggest satellite looms in the future, it is a sign things may be slowly turning in favor of the western powers. Our far eastern intelligence department has probably begun or soon will begin to probe this new aspect, find its course and what Red China dislikes about Russia.

These facts would be invaluable in the wooing of China. If this vast country could be turned into a large-scale Yugoslavia, its loss to Russia would be irreplaceable and the gain to us would be a benefit beyond any present calculation. Immediate exploitation of this trend seems indicated. It would be foolish to allow it to stagnate and drift away without effort to profit by it.

FEAST OF LIGHTS

Hanukkah, the Feast of Lights, began this year on December 13. Pious Jews are celebrating the eight day holiday with appropriate service and ceremonies in their homes and synagogues. It is a season of merriment and goodwill and Jews will exchange presents and greetings in much the same manner that Christians do at Christmas time.

The significance of Hanukkah is historic. It is the celebration of the anniversary of the cleansing and rededication of the sacred Temple after it was defiled by the Syrian King in the year 165 B.C. It was the famous Judas Maccabeus who led his people against the tyranny of Antiochus and won them the right to worship their God freely, according to their ancient laws.

Thus Hanukkah, in addition to its religious significance, has its place on the list of holidays which honor the deeds of brave men who were dedicated to liberty. At Christmas time Jewish members of the community extend the greetings of the season and their good wishes to their Christian neighbors. It it well for Christians to be aware of the meaning of Hanukkah and to wish their Jewish brethren the fullest enjoyment of the feast.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

A QUESTION

Men do not get jobs in high places without being recommended. Someone opens the door for them. In the case of Americans employed by the United Nations, someone got the jobs for them; someone screened them from the standpoint of security. The reason that Adrian S. Fisher, legal adviser to the State Department, has been called before the Federal Grand Jury in New York and the McCarran Committee is because it was assumed that he, as the law officer of the State Department, could tell how this is done. Also called were John D. Hickerson, Assistant Secretary of State for UN Affairs and Carlisle H. Humelsine, Deputy Under Secretary for Administration.

The United Nations employs a large staff of all types of administrators, heads of departments, down to janitors and caretakers. Some of these persons come in by examination on a kind of civil service. Others are hired because of their reputations and known skills. They represent many nations and speak of themselves as international officials.

There seems to be a quota system, so many allotted to each country to prevent any one country from having a monopoly. All countries, except the United States, can control their own personnel in the United Nations by simple passport arrangements. In a word, if they do not want a man or woman to be employed by the United Nations, no passport is granted. On the other hand, because the United Nations is situated in New York, no American needs a passport to go to the United Nations. Therefore, this device is available to every member state of the United Nations except the United States.

All Russians, Poles, Ukrainians, and others of the satellite groups who are employed in the United Nations are directly appointed by their own delegations. A few old-time anti-Communist Czechs remain and that is often used as an exhibit of freedom from control. The State Department, however, maintains that it does not appoint Americans; in fact, it insists that it keeps its hands off such matters. How does it happen that so many in the bigger jobs have formerly been employed in one department or other of the Government of the United States, and some of them, by the State Department? How does it happen that many who were fired from our Government as security risks, found their way into the United Nations? Who opened the door for them?

Further, it has been stated to those seeking to discover the facts that if the United Nations requires security information from any government, it is possible to get the facts officially in a very short time, perhaps within a fortnight. The return of requested data from the State Department is always delayed. Why the delay? Who is responsible for the delay?

Even now, after Trygve Lie has dismissed 18 Americans who have demonstrated that they are security risks, the State Department remains noncooperative with the McCarran Committee which has not been witch-hunting in any respect, but has caught the subversive devils red-handed, some of them fearing to testify as to whether they have engaged in espionage lest they incriminate themselves.

The McCarran Committee will continue its investigation after General Eisenhower has become President of the United States. Senator William Langer, who will head the Judiciary Committee, has already announced that this will be the policy of his committee. Senator Homer Ferguson will be in charge of the sub-committee investigating subversion.

Senator Ferguson, having a logical mind, is bound to ask the questions herein outlined. Otherwise, the investigation makes no sense. True, there is some excitement in discovering Americans in the United Nations who will not speak about espionage without fearing that they will incriminate themselves. But that is not enough.

From the standpoint of a legislative committee, what is important is not to "get" anybody, but rather to find the process by which the security of the country is imperilled and to pass legislation plugging up the holes. The attitude of the State Department has thus far been to run interference for the subversives. This question may roll over into Senator Wiley's Committee on Foreign Relations, which supervises the State Department, and Senator McCarthy's Committee on Executive Expenditures.

With these committees cooperating to get at the process, the State Department will ultimately be forced to disclose the truth, no matter who is involved and how long it takes.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

REDUCING WEIGHT

Our drug manufacturers keep well up with all the advances in medicine, so that when a certain defect or disease of the human body is being investigated by research workers and a certain drug has been shown to have a definite beneficial effect upon the defect or disease, they often have the drug or combination of drugs ready, well in advance to treat the condition.

One of the drugs to which I often refer is amphetamine sulphate, which is used in alcoholism and also in obesity (excessive overweight).

Amphetamine has a double action, particularly in alcoholism, as it not only decreases the desire for alcohol but also gives the alcoholic a boost physically and mentally, just when he needs it.

In the treatment of obesity, the same two effects follow the use of amphetamine, that is the desire for food is decreased and the overweight leaves the table satisfied with his food intake and with less desire to rest. As rest is as good as food in the increasing of weight and maintaining it, the fact that the patient walks or exercises more helps greatly in reducing weight.

Most physicians hesitate to use amphetamine, dinitrophenol and other drugs, because there are sometimes unpleasant reactions. For this reason physicians first put overweights on a reducing diet for 4 to 6 weeks in order to get the water balance established and find out just how effective the reducing diet is in decreasing weight.

If the reducing diet is not decreasing weight by one-half to one pound a week, they may add a dose of amphetamine after breakfast and lunch. Amphetamine is not usually prescribed after mid-afternoon as it brightens the individual up so that he may not get to sleep at the proper time. The fact that the overweight feels more active physically is also a great help in digestion and absorption and thus in preventing constipation. The first dose or two of amphetamine should be supervised by the physician.

However, notwithstanding the fact that amphetamine depresses the appetite and increases physical activity, physiciains doing special work in obesity advise that the reducing diet be continued to a point where the weight is just a little less than normal for height, weight and build, and then the food intake be increased gradually until normal weight is reached and that amount of food continued daily.

In all reducing diets, proteins—meat, fish, and eggs—particularly should not be reduced. Starch and fat foods should be reduced.

That Season's Here Again, Folks

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—This column receives a great many letters from G.I.s and gobs in Korea and other areas asking for advice and help regarding various inequities. Many of these get to the root of enlisted men's problems and even affect the general public.

Because of widespread interest, here are the most recent excerpts from the G.I. mail bag:

Cablegram from 55 members of 332nd Signal Battalion, Darmstadt, Germany—"Pan American Airways forced cancellation of a contract between 55 G.I.s and Sabena Airlines for a chartered plane to take us home for Christmas. Pan American withheld action until after we had waived our right to government transportation for the month of December, leaving the alternative of paying full prices for commercial transportation or remaining overseas for the second successive Christmas. When we protested, the PanAm representative called us 'emotional kids.' We are 55 'emotional kids' who still appreciate spending Christmas at home with our families."

Answer—Investigation by this column finds that the 55 G.I.s' cable not only is accurate, but that Pan American Airways also brought pressure on the British, French, Dutch, as well as Sabena (Belgian) Airlines to cancel 30 other chartered Christmas flights.

PanAm warned these airlines that under an international transport association regulation they could be fined $50,000. This regulation is actually intended to stop cut-rate competition. Nevertheless, PanAm threatened to invoke it to stop the G.I. Christmas flights. As a result, the other airlines got cold feet and left the G.I.s stranded in Europe. As far as this column could learn, only one chartered plane ignored the warning and went ahead with its flight.

Apparently, Pan American hoped to force the G.I.s to fly home on its planes at regular commercial rates. This would amount to from $100 to $250 extra for each G.I., depending on how many had got together for a chartered flight.

Though all available military transportation is already booked up for December, the Air Force has promised this column to have any "special mission" planes sent to Europe during December to pick up these stranded G.I.s on the way home. The Air Force has also contacted several unscheduled airlines, which do not come under ITA rules and asked them to pick up the canceled charters. This column is happy to report that most of the strander G.I.s will be home for Christmas—in spite of Pan American Airways.

Three Enlisted Men Aboard the U.S.S. Duxbury Bay—"There are 215 white hats (enlisted men) aboard this ship. We have four shower stalls, but only three operate, and they are turned on just one hour per day. Most of the time we have only two washbowls to wash up. Yet 215 men are given only 15 minutes to clean up in the morning. If we don't turn to on time, we have to work two hours for every five minutes we are late."

Answer — When the seaplane tender U. S. S. Duxbury Bay last left port, she was supposed to have 18 washbasins and nine showers for 215 enlisted men, as compared with 10 washbasins and six showers for 16 officers. Even if all these facilities are working, this still leaves 12 enlisted men to a washbowl and 26 to a shower, as compared to less than two officers to a washbowl and three to a shower. It looks as if the officers could move over a bit and give the "white hats" more elbow room around the washbowls.

A Service Mother, Denver, Colorado—"My son has served two years with the Marines, 11 months of this in Korea. He was slightly wounded by shrapnel on Heartbreak Ridge. He has less than a year before his enlistment is up. But he has been shipped to Camp Pendleton, California, for assignment back to Korea. Isn't there a regulation against this?"

Answer — Enlisted men under the rank of sergeant are not supposed to be shipped to Korea if they have less than eight months left to serve. Those who haven't even been sent to an embarkation point are supposed to have over a year left before they can be shipped out. However, both the army and the marines have been ignoring the regulation and shipping men to Korea despite it. Now that you know the regulation, you can raise the issue with the proper authorities.

Capital News Capsules

Stevenson's Hindsight—At his White House sessions last week, Governor Stevenson remarked that last July he was convinced no Democrat could beat Eisenhower. "But during the campaign," Stevenson added, "I fooled myself and thought I had a real chance to win. As I look back on it, I now realize that I was right last July—nobody could have beaten Eisenhower this year."

Inauguration Weather — David Lynn, the Capitol architest, is basing the seating plans for President Eisenhower's inaugural on the Hagerstown Almanac—a Bible of weather and planting tips used by Maryland farmers. The first thing Lynn did in planning for the size of his grandstands was to turn to the almanac, which says that the weather for January 20 will be cloudy, moderately cool. (The worse the weather is the less grandstand space needed.)

Air Secretary

There's been a lot of backstage debate among Ike-advisers about the appointment of Harold Talbott, World War 1 and 2 aviation man and heavy GOP campaign contributor, as secretary of the air force in the Eisenhower administration.

Talbott hit the headlines last summer as the Republican who collected $20,000 from the Seagram's whiskey group during the 1948 campaign. A similar contribution was given to the Democrats.

Much earlier, in World War 1 he and his airplane company were investigated by Charles Evans Hughes at the instance of President Woodrow Wilson in connection with Liberty engines. Talbott was vice president and manager of Dayton Metal Products Co., and Dayton-Wright Airplane Co., later becoming president of the latter company. Both were formed by Charles Kettering of General Motors and Edward Deeds of National Cash Register.

In 1917, Deeds was made a colonel by Secretary of War Newton D. Baker and placed in charge of the equipment division for aviation where he could award contracts. A total of 3,490 airplanes was contracted for, equipped with Liberty motors, supposed to be manufactured by the company operated by Deeds, Talbott and Kettering. No planes were delivered during the duration of the war.

Charles Evans Hughes, after investigation, recommended that Deeds be court-martialed, but there was no subsequent action. Among other things, investigation showed that there was no paid-in capital in the two companies when the contracts were awarded.

In World War 2, Talbott served as aviation expert on the War Production Board and, in the opinion of this column, did a conscientious job. He got into the army's hair, however, and eventually was eased out.

Talbott was a heavy contributor to the Dewey campaign in 1948 and was scheduled to become ambassador to Great Britain. He has served as chairman of North American Aviation, Standard Cap and Steel, the Mead Corp., and a director of Auto-Lite, Commercial National Bank and Trust, Madison Square Garden Co., Chrysler, Russell Manufacturing Co., and James Stewart and Co.

Deals, Fixes Reap Big Money Benefits Under Truman Regime for Economic Groups

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 15—Invisible government — where deals and fixes are made that do not involve pecuniary gain for individuals or bribery of officials but which result in vast financial benefits being improperly conferred on economic groups—has flourished under the Truman administration.

If the full story were uncovered as to what has been happening behind the scenes from the time that President Truman two years ago appointed his Wage and Stabilization Boards allegedly to control prices and stabilize wages and salaries, the nation would be shocked at a type of corruption which has come to be accepted as "normal."

Plenty of criticism is heard when somebody in business contributes to somebody's campaign fund after election but the shameful relationships that operate constantly between union labor groups and government boards that do their bidding haven't aroused a ripple of comment from the so-called "liberals" who pride themselves on their virtuous interest in governmental ethics.

Today the CIO is calling for decontrols mostly because it has reached the end of the road of favoritism by governmental boards and thinks it can do better by negotiation with management.

The AF of L wants to see controls maintained. It is rightly worried about consumer prices.

A large number of important labor contracts involving many hundreds of thousands of workers are up for renewal in a few months. Not being content to wait for the Eisenhower administration to take office and formulate an anti-inflation policy, the CIO and many business groups want controls ended at once. Management organizations have begun to boycott the wage boards by refusing to encourage businessmen to accept appointments on regional or national boards. Not long ago labor union leaders boycotted the same boards because it was desired to influence the administration to take over not only the handling of wages but disputes on union shops and other matters which usually would be handled under the Taft-Hartley Act.

Neither management nor labor groups have acted in the public interest. They probably cannot because of their overriding material interest. It is understandable how each side has been displeased with the evolution of governmental policy in dealing with wage controls but the real villain in the piece is the administration with its clandestine deals with labor. President Truman made a deal with the late Phil Murray in December 1951 promising him not to use the Taft-Hartley Act and this resulted in the most costly steel strike in history. Likewise just before the recent election the Wage Stabilization Board approved a $1.50 a day increase for coal miners but John L. Lewis started a strike that might have cost the Democratic party not only the electoral votes of West Virginia, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana and other states where the coal-miner vote sometimes holds the balance of power but also the seats of Democratic members of Congress previously favorable to labor. Mr. Truman made a deal through one of his emissaries and Mr. Lewis called off the strike a few days before the election. West Virginia went Democratic.

The pay-off came just the same after the election when the Wage Stabilization Board was overruled by the President himself so as to grant the $1.90 a day which Lewis wanted. So sure was Mr. Lewis that his deal would be put through after election that he went off for a vacation to South America last month sublimely indifferent. This isn't the way a big labor union leader usually treats an unsettled issue. Mr. Truman came through and approved the increase but there also came a wave of resignations from members of the wage boards throughout the country.

It will be suggested that maybe there shouldn't be any labor or industry members on these boards at all but simply public members. This would be excellent if public members could be chosen who were really disinterested. An important official of the government—not connected previously either with labor or business but thoroughly familiar with the situation—said privately to this correspondent the other day:

"One big difficulty about government labor agencies is that the staffs themselves tend to be prolabor. Labor economists and labor lawyers start out with a prolabor bias when they begin to study labor economics and labor law. Thus, when cases are actually worked upon, labor has the advantage of having analyses made by persons whose predisposition is that labor can do no wrong. It was difficult to prove but one of the charges made against certain public members of recent Wage Stabilization Boards was that their professional interest in the making of arbitration contracts kept them pro-labor. If they were not pro-labor, they would be blacklisted by labor unions and rendered unacceptable later for selection to lush arbitration posts that pay big fees."

When arbitrators are chosen, so-called "neutrals" who have acted as arbitrators before are placed on the suggested panels. While, of course, both sides pay the arbitrationtion fees, an arbitrator who hasn't been pro-labor in previous settlements is rarely accepted by labor again. Management can't insist on fair-minded men for arbitrators or mediators because labor would not agree and strikes would never end. It's a vicious practice and deserves a thoroughgoing inquiry by Congress because inevitably there will be labor-management disputes on which the facts, if not the recommendations, will have to be developed by "impartial" boards.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

There is a mysterious move afoot to swindle the American people with a thing called the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions which is represented as a straight anti-Communist front to defend western Europe and the Adriatic against the imperial communism of Soviet Russia.

The chief United States agent of this conspiracy is one Irving Brown, who is absolutely unknown to our people and at last reports was a violent Lovestone communist and an officer of the group which called for a shooting revolution to establish a system of Soviets here. Brown's chief is Jay Lovestone. Lovestone's background is mysterious but he is as well known in the Communist movement as Stalin, Earl Browder or any other Red you can name. He was so important in world communism that after Stalin kicked him out of the Russian imperialist regime in 1928 he organized his own Communist party in the United States called the Lovestonites.

As recently as 1940 Lovestone reaffirmed his unmitigated Marxian Communist program in testimony before the House committee. There is no record known to me that he ever receded from pure Marxian communism and Sovietism. Not content with my own findings, however, I have consulted experts who have been intimates of the Red movement. They include the best authority of all, Ben Gitlow, who has just told me again that there is not the slightest ground for a belief that Lovestone has apostatized. The Lovestonites have ceased to be a "group" but their ism is still alive. Gitlow was a contemporary American Communist who finally did recant, absolutely. He did everything a man possibly could to warn the American people and our government against his old comrades. He has gone through hell. He can't get steady work appropriate to his valuable ability and yet our gov-

Years ago when youngsters started school one of the first things they learned to do was to use a ruler to draw a straight line. On some of these rulers, as we remember them after all these years, was printed the simple legend, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you." Some of the methods of teaching have changed with the years but we like to believe that the philosophy of the Golden Rule still underlines all the things taught the young people in our schools.

People today are more sophisticated than they were a few decades ago. Mottos and sayings are not invested with the same importance that they once were. Yet every day in the papers we read of efforts by good men to find formulas to accomplish certain things in everyday living. Diplomats seek a formula for the end of the fighting in Korea and for a lasting peace; labor and management seek a formula by which they can cooperate to end strikes and ensure industrial goodwill; men in public life seek codes of ethics for public servants so that those on whom the public trust is laid will serve it honestly and well.

It is proper that men should look for new ways to live together better. But perhaps if those goals of seeking men are ever reached it will be discovered that the simple truth of the Golden Rule is what they were looking for all along. Certainly no harmony among men on any level is possible unless that rule is in effect.

IS CHINA TURNING WEST?

Experts in foreign affairs think they scent a possible rift or potential rupture between Red China and Russia. Perhaps this may be so.

It would explain the sudden blasting of India and denouncing of her peace plan by Andrei Vishinsky in a surprising burst of anger. India is one of the countries being ardently courted by Communist Russia and embarrassing India would be a high price to pay for any diplomatic move. Apparently Russia believes keeping Red China safe behind the Iron Curtain is well worth the cost of alienating India whose possible conversion is questionable.

If a possible break between Russia and her biggest satellite looms in the future, it is a sign things may be slowly turning in favor of the western powers. Our far eastern intelligence department has probably begun or soon will begin to probe this new aspect, find its course and what Red China dislikes about Russia.

These facts would be invaluable in the wooing of China. If this vast country could be turned into a large-scale Yugoslavia, its loss to Russia would be irreplaceable and the gain to us would be a benefit beyond any present calculation. Immediate exploitation of this trend seems indicated. It would be foolish to allow it to stagnate and drift away without effort to profit by it.

FEAST OF LIGHTS

Hanukkah, the Feast of Lights, began this year on December 13. Pious Jews are celebrating the eight day holiday with appropriate service and ceremonies in their homes and synagogues. It is a season of merriment and goodwill and Jews will exchange presents and greetings in much the same manner that Christians do at Christmas time.

The significance of Hanukkah is historic. It is the celebration of the anniversary of the cleansing and rededication of the sacred Temple after it was defiled by the Syrian King in the year 165 B.C. It was the famous Judas Maccabeus who led his people against the tyranny of Antiochus and won them the right to worship their God freely, according to their ancient laws.

Thus Hanukkah, in addition to its religious significance, has its place on the list of holidays which honor the deeds of brave men who were dedicated to liberty. At Christmas time Jewish members of the community extend the greetings of the season and their good wishes to their Christian neighbors. It it well for Christians to be aware of the meaning of Hanukkah and to wish their Jewish brethren the fullest enjoyment of the feast.

A QUESTION

Men do not get jobs in high places without being recommended. Someone opens the door for them. In the case of Americans employed by the United Nations, someone got the jobs for them; someone screened them from the standpoint of security. The reason that Adrian S. Fisher, legal adviser to the State Department, has been called before the Federal Grand Jury in New York and the McCarran Committee is because it was assumed that he, as the law officer of the State Department, could tell how this is done. Also called were John D. Hickerson, Assistant Secretary of State for UN Affairs and Carlisle H. Humelsine, Deputy Under Secretary for Administration.

The United Nations employs a large staff of all types of administrators, heads of departments, down to janitors and caretakers. Some of these persons come in by examination on a kind of civil service. Others are hired because of their reputations and known skills. They represent many nations and speak of themselves as international officials.

There seems to be a quota system, so many allotted to each country to prevent any one country from having a monopoly. All countries, except the United States, can control their own personnel in the United Nations by simple passport arrangements. In a word, if they do not want a man or woman to be employed by the United Nations, no passport is granted. On the other hand, because the United Nations is situated in New York, no American needs a passport to go to the United Nations. Therefore, this device is available to every member state of the United Nations except the United States.

All Russians, Poles, Ukrainians, and others of the satellite groups who are employed in the United Nations are directly appointed by their own delegations. A few old-time anti-Communist Czechs remain and that is often used as an exhibit of freedom from control. The State Department, however, maintains that it does not appoint Americans; in fact, it insists that it keeps its hands off such matters. How does it happen that so many in the bigger jobs have formerly been employed in one department or other of the Government of the United States, and some of them, by the State Department? How does it happen that many who were fired from our Government as security risks, found their way into the United Nations? Who opened the door for them?

Further, it has been stated to those seeking to discover the facts that if the United Nations requires security information from any government, it is possible to get the facts officially in a very short time, perhaps within a fortnight. The return of requested data from the State Department is always delayed. Why the delay? Who is responsible for the delay?

Even now, after Trygve Lie has dismissed 18 Americans who have demonstrated that they are security risks, the State Department remains noncooperative with the McCarran Committee which has not been witch-hunting in any respect, but has caught the subversive devils red-handed, some of them fearing to testify as to whether they have engaged in espionage lest they incriminate themselves.

The McCarran Committee will continue its investigation after General Eisenhower has become President of the United States. Senator William Langer, who will head the Judiciary Committee, has already announced that this will be the policy of his committee. Senator Homer Ferguson will be in charge of the sub-committee investigating subversion.

Senator Ferguson, having a logical mind, is bound to ask the questions herein outlined. Otherwise, the investigation makes no sense. True, there is some excitement in discovering Americans in the United Nations who will not speak about espionage without fearing that they will incriminate themselves. But that is not enough.

From the standpoint of a legislative committee, what is important is not to "get" anybody, but rather to find the process by which the security of the country is imperilled and to pass legislation plugging up the holes. The attitude of the State Department has thus far been to run interference for the subversives. This question may roll over into Senator Wiley's Committee on Foreign Relations, which supervises the State Department, and Senator McCarthy's Committee on Executive Expenditures.

With these committees cooperating to get at the process, the State Department will ultimately be forced to disclose the truth, no matter who is involved and how long it takes.

That Body of Yours

REDUCING WEIGHT

Our drug manufacturers keep well up with all the advances in medicine, so that when a certain defect or disease of the human body is being investigated by research workers and a certain drug has been shown to have a definite beneficial effect upon the defect or disease, they often have the drug or combination of drugs ready, well in advance to treat the condition.

One of the drugs to which I often refer is amphetamine sulphate, which is used in alcoholism and also in obesity (excessive overweight).

Amphetamine has a double action, particularly in alcoholism, as it not only decreases the desire for alcohol but also gives the alcoholic a boost physically and mentally, just when he needs it.

In the treatment of obesity, the same two effects follow the use of amphetamine, that is the desire for food is decreased and the overweight leaves the table satisfied with his food intake and with less desire to rest. As rest is as good as food in the increasing of weight and maintaining it, the fact that the patient walks or exercises more helps greatly in reducing weight.

Most physicians hesitate to use amphetamine, dinitrophenol and other drugs, because there are sometimes unpleasant reactions. For this reason physicians first put overweights on a reducing diet for 4 to 6 weeks in order to get the water balance established and find out just how effective the reducing diet is in decreasing weight.

If the reducing diet is not decreasing weight by one-half to one pound a week, they may add a dose of amphetamine after breakfast and lunch. Amphetamine is not usually prescribed after mid-afternoon as it brightens the individual up so that he may not get to sleep at the proper time. The fact that the overweight feels more active physically is also a great help in digestion and absorption and thus in preventing constipation. The first dose or two of amphetamine should be supervised by the physician.

However, notwithstanding the fact that amphetamine depresses the appetite and increases physical activity, physiciains doing special work in obesity advise that the reducing diet be continued to a point where the weight is just a little less than normal for height, weight and build, and then the food intake be increased gradually until normal weight is reached and that amount of food continued daily.

In all reducing diets, proteins—meat, fish, and eggs—particularly should not be reduced. Starch and fat foods should be reduced.

That Season's Here Again, Folks

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—This column receives a great many letters from G.I.s and gobs in Korea and other areas asking for advice and help regarding various inequities. Many of these get to the root of enlisted men's problems and even affect the general public.

Because of widespread interest, here are the most recent excerpts from the G.I. mail bag:

Cablegram from 55 members of 332nd Signal Battalion, Darmstadt, Germany—"Pan American Airways forced cancellation of a contract between 55 G.I.s and Sabena Airlines for a chartered plane to take us home for Christmas. Pan American withheld action until after we had waived our right to government transportation for the month of December, leaving the alternative of paying full prices for commercial transportation or remaining overseas for the second successive Christmas. When we protested, the PanAm representative called us 'emotional kids.' We are 55 'emotional kids' who still appreciate spending Christmas at home with our families."

Answer—Investigation by this column finds that the 55 G.I.s' cable not only is accurate, but that Pan American Airways also brought pressure on the British, French, Dutch, as well as Sabena (Belgian) Airlines to cancel 30 other chartered Christmas flights.

PanAm warned these airlines that under an international transport association regulation they could be fined $50,000. This regulation is actually intended to stop cut-rate competition. Nevertheless, PanAm threatened to invoke it to stop the G.I. Christmas flights. As a result, the other airlines got cold feet and left the G.I.s stranded in Europe. As far as this column could learn, only one chartered plane ignored the warning and went ahead with its flight.

Apparently, Pan American hoped to force the G.I.s to fly home on its planes at regular commercial rates. This would amount to from $100 to $250 extra for each G.I., depending on how many had got together for a chartered flight.

Though all available military transportation is already booked up for December, the Air Force has promised this column to have any "special mission" planes sent to Europe during December to pick up these stranded G.I.s on the way home. The Air Force has also contacted several unscheduled airlines, which do not come under ITA rules and asked them to pick up the canceled charters. This column is happy to report that most of the strander G.I.s will be home for Christmas—in spite of Pan American Airways.

Three Enlisted Men Aboard the U.S.S. Duxbury Bay—"There are 215 white hats (enlisted men) aboard this ship. We have four shower stalls, but only three operate, and they are turned on just one hour per day. Most of the time we have only two washbowls to wash up. Yet 215 men are given only 15 minutes to clean up in the morning. If we don't turn to on time, we have to work two hours for every five minutes we are late."

Answer — When the seaplane tender U. S. S. Duxbury Bay last left port, she was supposed to have 18 washbasins and nine showers for 215 enlisted men, as compared with 10 washbasins and six showers for 16 officers. Even if all these facilities are working, this still leaves 12 enlisted men to a washbowl and 26 to a shower, as compared to less than two officers to a washbowl and three to a shower. It looks as if the officers could move over a bit and give the "white hats" more elbow room around the washbowls.

A Service Mother, Denver, Colorado—"My son has served two years with the Marines, 11 months of this in Korea. He was slightly wounded by shrapnel on Heartbreak Ridge. He has less than a year before his enlistment is up. But he has been shipped to Camp Pendleton, California, for assignment back to Korea. Isn't there a regulation against this?"

Answer — Enlisted men under the rank of sergeant are not supposed to be shipped to Korea if they have less than eight months left to serve. Those who haven't even been sent to an embarkation point are supposed to have over a year left before they can be shipped out. However, both the army and the marines have been ignoring the regulation and shipping men to Korea despite it. Now that you know the regulation, you can raise the issue with the proper authorities.

Capital News Capsules

Stevenson's Hindsight—At his White House sessions last week, Governor Stevenson remarked that last July he was convinced no Democrat could beat Eisenhower. "But during the campaign," Stevenson added, "I fooled myself and thought I had a real chance to win. As I look back on it, I now realize that I was right last July—nobody could have beaten Eisenhower this year."

Inauguration Weather — David Lynn, the Capitol architest, is basing the seating plans for President Eisenhower's inaugural on the Hagerstown Almanac—a Bible of weather and planting tips used by Maryland farmers. The first thing Lynn did in planning for the size of his grandstands was to turn to the almanac, which says that the weather for January 20 will be cloudy, moderately cool. (The worse the weather is the less grandstand space needed.)

Air Secretary

There's been a lot of backstage debate among Ike-advisers about the appointment of Harold Talbott, World War 1 and 2 aviation man and heavy GOP campaign contributor, as secretary of the air force in the Eisenhower administration.

Talbott hit the headlines last summer as the Republican who collected $20,000 from the Seagram's whiskey group during the 1948 campaign. A similar contribution was given to the Democrats.

Much earlier, in World War 1 he and his airplane company were investigated by Charles Evans Hughes at the instance of President Woodrow Wilson in connection with Liberty engines. Talbott was vice president and manager of Dayton Metal Products Co., and Dayton-Wright Airplane Co., later becoming president of the latter company. Both were formed by Charles Kettering of General Motors and Edward Deeds of National Cash Register.

In 1917, Deeds was made a colonel by Secretary of War Newton D. Baker and placed in charge of the equipment division for aviation where he could award contracts. A total of 3,490 airplanes was contracted for, equipped with Liberty motors, supposed to be manufactured by the company operated by Deeds, Talbott and Kettering. No planes were delivered during the duration of the war.

Charles Evans Hughes, after investigation, recommended that Deeds be court-martialed, but there was no subsequent action. Among other things, investigation showed that there was no paid-in capital in the two companies when the contracts were awarded.

In World War 2, Talbott served as aviation expert on the War Production Board and, in the opinion of this column, did a conscientious job. He got into the army's hair, however, and eventually was eased out.

Talbott was a heavy contributor to the Dewey campaign in 1948 and was scheduled to become ambassador to Great Britain. He has served as chairman of North American Aviation, Standard Cap and Steel, the Mead Corp., and a director of Auto-Lite, Commercial National Bank and Trust, Madison Square Garden Co., Chrysler, Russell Manufacturing Co., and James Stewart and Co.

Management can't insist on fair-minded men for arbitrators or mediators because labor would not agree and strikes would never end. It's a vicious practice and deserves a thoroughgoing inquiry by Congress because inevitably there will be labor-management disputes on which the facts, if not the recommendations, will have to be developed by "impartial" boards.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

There is a mysterious move afoot to swindle the American people with a thing called the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions which is represented as a straight anti-Communist front to defend western Europe and the Adriatic against the imperial communism of Soviet Russia.

The chief United States agent of this conspiracy is one Irving Brown, who is absolutely unknown to our people and at last reports was a violent Lovestone communist and an officer of the group which called for a shooting revolution to establish a system of Soviets here. Brown's chief is Jay Lovestone. Lovestone's background is mysterious but he is as well known in the Communist movement as Stalin, Earl Browder or any other Red you can name. He was so important in world communism that after Stalin kicked him out of the Russian imperialist regime in 1928 he organized his own Communist party in the United States called the Lovestonites.

As recently as 1940 Lovestone reaffirmed his unmitigated Marxian Communist program in testimony before the House committee. There is no record known to me that he ever receded from pure Marxian communism and Sovietism. Not content with my own findings, however, I have consulted experts who have been intimates of the Red movement. They include the best authority of all, Ben Gitlow, who has just told me again that there is not the slightest ground for a belief that Lovestone has apostatized. The Lovestonites have ceased to be a "group" but their ism is still alive. Gitlow was a contemporary American Communist who finally did recant, absolutely. He did everything a man possibly could to warn the American people and our government against his old comrades. He has gone through hell. He can't get steady work appropriate to his valuable ability and yet our gov-

Base Will Help Canasta Game

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Every experienced Canasta player understands how important it is to make a base at an early stage of the play. This early base puts you in position to attack or defend, as circumstances may dictate.

A base consists of four or more natural cards in a single meld. For example, you may have four kings, or four queens, or four of anything else. You need at least four natural cards in any canasta, so those four natural cards are the base upon which you can add three more cards (either wild or natural) in order to complete the canasta.

A hand is seldom really hopeless when your side has made a base. As you and your partner accumulate wild cards, you can add them to this base to complete a canasta. Armed with that canasta you may find it possible to meld out and thus end the slaughter.

The really disastrous hand occurs when your side cannot meld a canasta and therefore cannot meld out.

The value of a base is chiefly defensive, but a base is useful also in the large number of hands in which both sides seem to have equal chances. At the beginning of such a hand you cannot tell whether you will be attacking or defending as the hand progresses.

A base will not hinder your attack, and it will prove absolutely invaluable if you find it necessary to defend.

A base is not nearly so necessary if it is absolutely clear that your side is attacking. For example, if you happen to pick up the first large discard pile, your side can carry the attack to the enemy.

The opponents will try to meld out quickly, but your side will try to prolong the hand as long as possible. In this situation you don't need an early base, but you can usually afford to make one or two bases simply because you have cards to spare.

Q—We were playing Cut-Throat Canasta, and one of the players took the discard pile. I had a score of 3500 points, and my partner had a score of 1600 points. What do we need for the initial meld?

A—It depends on the score of the player who melds. Your partner, with a score of 1600, needs 90 points for the initial meld. You, with a score of 3500 points, need 120 points for the initial meld. It usually doesn't matter because in this game you get so many cards that you can easily meet any minimum count requirement.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

He said he intended it as a warning against acceptance of German reparations for crimes against the Jews in Nazi Germany.

UN Visit Proves Highly Instructive

New Paltz, Dec. 15—Those expecting to make a trip to the United Nations should plan for it in advance. It will mean the difference between a successful visit or a disappointing one. The obvious reason is the scarcity of seats for the public in relation to the number of people wishing to attend the meetings. Lines are not an unusual sight in New York where they often extend for blocks, but these are usually for entertainments. The lobby of the UN building also has its lines. Before the sessions are scheduled to open people "queue" up for cancellation seats. On the day of the League of Women Voters trip there was no special meeting on the schedule but even so there was a waiting line. Persons must write in advance to reserve seats if they wish to be certain of getting into the sessions. The one drawback to this method is that guests do not know in advance which day will be interesting.

For the information of individuals or groups who want to visit the UN the address of inquiry is: Admission Office, United Nations, New York. Request for tickets for groups must be made two months in advance. The time limit is a few days for individuals. The public may attend meetings of the General Assembly, except on opening day, and Council meetings. Mail requests receive first consideration, then telephone requests the day previous. Meetings are mainly scheduled on 24 hour plans, so that definite promise of admission cannot be made under this time. Tickets are held for 15 minutes only. Then they go to the cancellation office where the lines form in the lobby waiting for them.

As a visitor for one day only, one cannot get the full import of what he sees and hears. First, there is the fact that one often enters in the middle of a committee discussion. References are made to preceding paragraphs, parts of resolutions, past speeches and meetings. One does not even know the names of the delegates as the desks carry nameplates of the countries which they represent. The chairman calls on the speakers by "the delegate from so and so."

Earphones Used

French and English are the official languages but one may hear six. If the delegate is speaking Spanish and one tunes his seat dial to English, he hears the Spanish coming over the speaker for the entire room and the translation on his earphone. The translation naturally is a pace behind the spoken language of the delegate. So, it takes awhile to adjust to this. Also, one has trouble locating the speaker to see what he looks like. The desks are arranged in a circle in alphabetical order. One is unable to see the complete circle from any one seat.

After the first visit one may find it necessary to come home and read the paper to learn what he saw and heard, or see it on television. One morning group on our trip was televised, so if one's set was tuned in he could have visited by television. The camera was turned on the audience several times. The reason this program was considered newsworthy was that Madame Pandit of India spoke on the India-Pakistan question before the Security Council. The debate was on forces to be stationed at the cease-fire line, in the Cashmir and Jamu area.

Calm Speaker

Madame Pandit spoke in a calm manner in beautiful English. She was dressed in native attire and later in the day she was seen in the gift shop by the touring group. The General Assembly was not in session but there was a legal committee meeting which was held in the General Assembly room. This group was seeking to define aggression. Of course, it is in relation to Korea. At the time the delegate from Egypt was speaking.

He spoke in French and gave an excellent speech which elaborated on the difficulty of defining aggression to cover all situations. He posed the question of whether defining aggression would help prevent it, and when discussed the issue of moral aggression and criminal aggression. Where should the line be drawn between them? Unfortunately, the conclusion of his address was not heard.

Like "Another World"

So much has been written about the UN buildings, architecture and furnishing that a visitor may feel that he knows what to expect. But when he enters the General Assembly building through one of the seven entrance doors of bronze and nickel he is in another world. He sees the hanging galleries four stories high. A rainbow bridge guards the stairway to the basement and seems to give support to the ramp leading to the first gallery. The lobby is all glass on the side facing the East river and also on the south. It is simple, modern and spacious. Greens grow along the bridge by the stairs. Attendants are at each door, the elevators and information desk.

The guided tour starts from the basement of this building. The lower lounge provides the facilities, checking room, telephones, book, gift and stamp shops. No eating facilities are available for the public. The guide takes groups through an underpass where a model of the UN is shown. Then one reenters the lobby by the General Assembly room.

One may recall the discussion of whether prayer should open the GA meetings. The explanation given was that all countries do not have the same religion and this could not be done. Provision was that a meditation room be located near the General Assembly for those who wished to pray in his own way before the meetings. This room is where the tour begins. Its simplicity is startling for those who have a preconceived idea of what a prayer room should be like. It is small with only 22 seats. It is shaped like a pyramid with the apex cut off. There is one beam of light coming from the ceiling which is focused on a large tree stump with a vine growing on it. There are no windows. The walls are covered by fibre glass draperies from ceiling to floor. It symbolizes peace and the source of all material things as being from the one God. The tree is 300 years old, one from Africa called Agbor. The light is the symbol for peace. The United Nations flag is the only other adornment in the room.

Back in the lobby toward a connecting building called the neck an art exhibit had been arranged. Artists donated their works to raise funds for UNICEF the children's emergency fund.

Nations Decorate Rooms

The lobby of the secretariat building is the only part the public may visit. The upper floors are conference rooms and offices, etc. There are four large conference rooms. Room number four had teakwood desks. They are arranged in alphabetical order with seats for aids and reporters to make verbatim records of proceedings. Press seats are almost as numerous as seats for the public. Television and radio rooms are enclosed on the sides. General press has tiers of seats in front of the gallery. Earphones are at each seat. All the large rooms follow the same general design, but were decorated by different countries.

Denmark decorated the trusteeship councilroom. Wood is used for its acoustic value. Finn Juhl did the decorating and lighting. The wood is ash brown and the furnishing is in green tones.

Norway's Per Krogh did the mural in the Security Council room. The doors are inlaid ash. Norway provided the tapestry for the walls of blue and gold and the chairs. Also the marble. The United Kingdom supplied the grey carpet.

Sweden decorated the economic and social council room. Sven Markelius did special lighting work and achieved a contrast between the area for the delegates and the public part. This is the ceiling left undone to show the beams and pipes and structure. It is functional design but seems unfinished to the conventional minded. It took one year to hand weave the large curtain. It is done in red, purple and orange with cream color. The design is sunburnt like an Indian motif. Sweden also provided the pine paneling and the carpet and the railings and doors as well as the white marble. The material in the curtain is linen and woool. All the large conference rooms have a full window on the East river. It is this room also where the discussed egg-doorknobs are found.

From the balcony of this building on the second floor level the best view of the fountain can be seen. As it is below ground level it is best seen by looking down. There are zigzag designs in the bottom made with black pebbles from the Island of Rhodes. The women and children of Greece gathered them. Only here could enough black pebbles be found. Many countries made contributions but all can not be mentioned in less than a book.

The last place visited on the tour was the General Assembly room. The murals were done by Fernand Leger of France. One is in red, black and white. The other in gold, blue and white. They are abstract and colorful and whether you like them depends on your own taste in art.

The site of the UN was donated by the Rockfellers. First avenue traffic will soon be eliminated by an underpass which New York is building. Here on the street side is the column of the 60 United Nations flags.

There is a small building used as the library to house many volumes in many languages in addition to records of the United Nations.

A shy and nervous young man at a dinner party couldn't summon up enough courage to make a contribution to the conversation. All evening long he'd been trying to think of something nice to say to his hostess.

At last he saw his chance. "What a small appetite you have, Mr. Jones," said his hostess with a smile.

"To sit next to you," he replied gallantly, "would cause any man to lose his appetite."

Little Tax Relief

outright stand for early tax cuts, while 12 stood up in opposition. And 18 senators—including several of the most influential—said let's balance the budget first and then see what can be done about cutting taxes.

Opinion was divided closely on what taxes should be reduced whenever Congress gets around to it. Among lawmakers mentioning specific types of reductions, 42 said they wanted to cut individual income taxes; 40 asked for cuts in excise (sales) taxes, and 39 wanted to reduce either income or excess profits taxes on corporations.

Many replies, 50 altogether, were expressed in generalities which failed to indicate a leaning in any one direction. And 26 congressmen either could not be reached or declined to respond. The survey makes no attempt to forecast specific congressional action—it simply reflects the opinions of congressmen willing to state their positions.

Among the large number of congressmen who stressed balancing the budget first, many also looked warmly upon tax cuts. They said tax reductions could go hand in hand with promised budget trimming next year. Others thought tax cuts would have to wait until later.

Generally, more Democrats were inclined to oppose tax cuts now than Republicans—21 to 6 in the House and 7 to 5 in the Senate. And senators generally held back more than House members.

Despite today's scattered opinions, Congress will have to make up its mind on taxes pretty quickly. Tax increases piled on top of tax increases in the last two years of war in Korea automatically begin to expire next June 30, unless the lawmakers step in with a new program.

The schedule of tax declines under present laws:

Next June 30—excess profits taxes on business, bringing in about 2½ billion dollars annually, will be eliminated.

Dec. 31, 1953—individual income taxes will drop back to lower levels, cutting revenue by three billions annually. The drop will be from the present 22.2 per cent tax rate to 20 per cent on net incomes of $2,000 or less; from 66 per cent to 59 per cent on incomes of $22,000 to $26,000.

April 1, 1954—Excise or sales taxes drop back by one billion, chiefly on alcoholic beverages, gasoline, cigarettes and sporting goods; corporation income taxes decline on the same date by two billion annually.

Rep. Reed (N. Y.) ranking Republican on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, favors letting excess profits taxes, regular corporation income taxes and excise levies decline as scheduled under present laws.

Reed would advance relief for individuals, to provide a little over a 5 per cent reduction in 1953, with another 5½ per cent cut in 1954. But he also made it clear he feels "what happens to taxes depends largely on the amount of whittling we can do to the Truman budget."

Rep. Martin (R.-Mass.), unopposed for House speaker, says he favors reducing taxes without throwing the budget out of line. Rep. Halleck (Indiana), unopposed for Republican floor leader, said tax relief should follow spending cuts.

Rep. Scott (R.-Pa.), a close adviser of President-elect Eisenhower, replied to the survey: "The first requisite is a balanced budget. We must make the government financially sound and then think about cutting taxes."

On the Senate side, such prominent Republican members of the Finance Committee as Taft (Ohio), Millikin (Colo.) and Martin (Pa.) indicated they want to trim spending before embarking on tax cuts. And Sen. Bridges (N. H.), a likely choice for GOP floor leader, has insisted on budget balancing before tax cuts.

Southern Democrats, who have teamed with Republicans in the past, also were strong for balancing the budget.

What spending cuts would be necessary to balance the budget and pave the way for tax reductions? Present revenues are estimated at 69 to 70 billions annually.

That's just about the spending goal attributed to Eisenhower and most congressmen willing to give a specific figure for next year. In answer to a survey on the budget, congressmen lined up 189 to 10 in favor of substantial cuts under the 79 billion dollar budget for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

Opposition to early tax cuts brought comments like these:

Rep. McCormack (D.-Mass.), Democratic floor leader—"I do not see how taxes can be wisely reduced next year."

Rep. Moss (D.-Calif.)—"Promises of tax reduction during the next session of Congress are fundamentally dishonest and unrealistic."

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Reds Grab Industry

Hong Kong (AP)—The Chinese Communist government now owns 78 per cent of all industries in Manchuria and plans to up that control to 81.5 per cent, reports Chen Yung, head of the Red financial and economic ministry. He admitted this percentage was higher than in China proper.

Pilots Rescue American Major

Tokyo, Dec. 15 (AP)—U. S. Marine and South African fighter pilots teamed up with a U. S. air force helicopter to rescue Marine Maj. Victor Ball deep in Communist territory.

Ball's first words to his rescuers were, "Am I glad to see you guys!"

An H-19 helicopter flew to Ball's aid in North Korea after he parachuted from his flak-riddled Corsair fighter.

Marine fighter planes covered the downed pilot until relieved by F-51s of the South African air force.

Strafing passes by the fighters held off Red ground units until the helicopter dipped in to snatch up the Marine flier 45 minutes after he had bailed out.

Ball, from Ashland, Ky., had been attacking troop targets in the Chinnampo port area.

Hunter Not So Happy

Indian Head, Canada (AP)—A district farmer got a scare when a hunter's bullet struck and killed the horse he was leading. The trigger-happy hunter protested in court he was not to blame because the farmer was not wearing a red jacket. The court ordered the hunter to make restitution.

As Pegler Sees It

ernment and our generals, including Eisenhower, have played ball with Lovestone and Lovestone's disciple, Irving Brown, in this effort to "save" western Europe and the Adriatic from communism. Lovestone, on the other hand, has never come clean.

The International Confederation of Free Trade Unions has just held a long, dull "conference" in a gritty plant called Freedom House, a center of "internationalism," which means diluted patriotism, dedicated to Wendell Willkie and the United Nations. I do not know whether the European "delegates" to this "conference" are anti-Communists, Socialists or what. I would gladly concede that they are all anti-Kremlin or even total anti-Communists. But the overriding fact would still remain that this whole confederation is an American imperial political conspiracy to establish in the areas this side of the Iron Curtain a system of government and economy which will be radical Socialist at the mildest. That isn't what we fought the war for.

We are doing this through Lovestone and this Brown, who have absolutely no credentials from our people but do possess bootleg credentials from the State Department, the Marshall Plan and the American military command. This scheme is receiving millions of our money under the counter. The only reason why it has been necessary to do business with the European Socialist unioneers at all in this dirty situation is that our generals, ambassadors and Truman just after victory were such dam fools that they turned the whole show over to the Communists in France, Italy and everywhere else. They slugged the so-called Fascists and collaborationists, but kissed the Red traitors as heroes of the "resistance."

You can hope and wish and pine but the best conclusion you can reach about Eisenhower, God help us, was that he was a big, dumb square-head who humored the European Reds until it was too late to head them off. Then it became necessary to try to kick them out, and now for that job we pick a communist leader and his first lieutenant.

Our so-called Central Intelligence Agency is a stupid thing with millions to squander on useless "reports" and rumors and subsidies to unreliable "allies." That agency right now is proceeding on the assumption that Irving Brown has had a change of heart and turned anti-communist although, admittedly, there isn't a word of proof. Moreover, it is freely admitted that Lovestone is still a Lovestonite, meaning an anti-Kremlin communist but a communist just the same, and that he is the "secretary of state" of this foul mess of ours with Brown in the subordinate status of Lovestone's ambassador.

No ambassador can oppose the political philosophy of his secretary of state and there is no evidence that Brown opposes his old friend and chief, Jay Lovestone. Yet Eisenhower only a few weeks ago went out of his way to throw Brown a nod at a rally of professional American unioneers in New York. Of course, Ike's own failures in the immediate political situation right after VE-Day are largely responsible for the strength of the Kremlin Reds in France, Belgium, Italy and Greece. He has to pretend that Brown is a great guy and try to grin away the verified facts of this bum's devotion to Lovestone's brand of communism.

You don't have to take my word for this. I will prove it to you by documents and witnesses whom you surely will believe.

Now David Dubinsky, the boss of the Garment Workers' Union is the boss (in the sense that he is the employer) of Lovestone and Brown. They both worked for his union for years. Lovestone still does. Lovestone has been his court correspondent, like Ilya Ehrenberg of Moscow or the official flatterers and interpreters of Hitler and Mussolini. Dubinsky is not a communist. He says he is an anti-communist. But Gitlow and other experts simply answer that if Socialists succeed in their program then communism inevitably comes next.

I don't know why the Reader's Digest, Time, Mercury and many of our papers which publish a motivated pro-union column of propaganda on the pretext that they are giving "labor's" side, persist in the pretense that this is a matter of no importance. The least you can make of it is that our government is giving a moral and financial subsidy to an imperial Socialist political expansion and interfering in the internal political affairs of many countries. Isn't that the very thing that made us so furious at Soviet Russia in the first place?

And if we have to do it at all can't we find any more representative Americans than Jay Lovestone, Irving Brown and Dave Dubinsky.

The International Confederation of Free Trade Unions has just held a long, dull "conference" in a gritty plant called Freedom House, a center of "internationalism," which means diluted patriotism, dedicated to Wendell Willkie and the United Nations. I do not know whether the European "delegates" to this "conference" are anti-Communists, Socialists or what. I would gladly concede that they are all anti-Kremlin or even total anti-Communists. But the overriding fact would still remain that this whole confederation is an American imperial political conspiracy to establish in the areas this side of the Iron Curtain a system of government and economy which will be radical Socialist at the mildest. That isn't what we fought the war for.

We are doing this through Lovestone and this Brown, who have absolutely no credentials from our people but do possess bootleg credentials from the State Department, the Marshall Plan and the American military command. This scheme is receiving millions of our money under the counter. The only reason why it has been necessary to do business with the European Socialist unioneers at all in this dirty situation is that our generals, ambassadors and Truman just after victory were such dam fools that they turned the whole show over to the Communists in France, Italy and everywhere else. They slugged the so-called Fascists and collaborationists, but kissed the Red traitors as heroes of the "resistance."

You can hope and wish and pine but the best conclusion you can reach about Eisenhower, God help us, was that he was a big, dumb square-head who humored the European Reds until it was too late to head them off. Then it became necessary to try to kick them out, and now for that job we pick a communist leader and his first lieutenant.

Our so-called Central Intelligence Agency is a stupid thing with millions to squander on useless "reports" and rumors and subsidies to unreliable "allies." That agency right now is proceeding on the assumption that Irving Brown has had a change of heart and turned anti-communist although, admittedly, there isn't a word of proof. Moreover, it is freely admitted that Lovestone is still a Lovestonite, meaning an anti-Kremlin communist but a communist just the same, and that he is the "secretary of state" of this foul mess of ours with Brown in the subordinate status of Lovestone's ambassador.

No ambassador can oppose the political philosophy of his secretary of state and there is no evidence that Brown opposes his old friend and chief, Jay Lovestone. Yet Eisenhower only a few weeks ago went out of his way to throw Brown a nod at a rally of professional American unioneers in New York. Of course, Ike's own failures in the immediate political situation right after VE-Day are largely responsible for the strength of the Kremlin Reds in France, Belgium, Italy and Greece. He has to pretend that Brown is a great guy and try to grin away the verified facts of this bum's devotion to Lovestone's brand of communism.

You don't have to take my word for this. I will prove it to you by documents and witnesses whom you surely will believe.

Now David Dubinsky, the boss of the Garment Workers' Union is the boss (in the sense that he is the employer) of Lovestone and Brown. They both worked for his union for years. Lovestone still does. Lovestone has been his court correspondent, like Ilya Ehrenberg of Moscow or the official flatterers and interpreters of Hitler and Mussolini. Dubinsky is not a communist. But Gitlow and other experts simply answer that if Socialists succeed in their program then communism inevitably comes next.

I don't know why the Reader's Digest, Time, Mercury and many of our papers which publish a motivated pro-union column of propaganda on the pretext that they are giving "labor's" side, persist in the pretense that this is a matter of no importance. The least you can make of it is that our government is giving a moral and financial subsidy to an imperial Socialist political expansion and interfering in the internal political affairs of many countries. Isn't that the very thing that made us so furious at Soviet Russia in the first place?

And if we have to do it at all can't we find any more representative Americans than Jay Lovestone, Irving Brown and Dave Dubinsky.

Pilots Rescue American Major

Tokyo, Dec. 15 (AP)—U. S. Marine and South African fighter pilots teamed up with a U. S. air force helicopter to rescue Marine Maj. Victor Ball deep in Communist territory.

Ball's first words to his rescuers were, "Am I glad to see you guys!"

An H-19 helicopter flew to Ball's aid in North Korea after he parachuted from his flak-riddled Corsair fighter.

Marine fighter planes covered the downed pilot until relieved by F-51s of the South African air force.

Strafing passes by the fighters held off Red ground units until the helicopter dipped in to snatch up the Marine flier 45 minutes after he had bailed out.

Ball, from Ashland, Ky., had been attacking troop targets in the Chinnampo port area.

Because of the heavy Communist weapons concentration in the area, the helicopter pilot was left to decide whether to attempt a rescue. The pilot, Capt. Walter E. Karutz, Sacramento, Calif., chose to go in. His co-pilot was Lt. Theodoros A. Kentrotis, Rosedale, N. Y.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Use of Point Count Helps Bridge Game

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Monday is bridge lesson day, and as usual I will discuss bidding according to the point-count method so that beginners and average players can see how the experts bid. Just in case you're not familiar with the point-count, here it is: Count 4 points for each ace in your hand; 3 for each king; 2 for each queen; 1 for each jack.

There are 10 points in each suit, and 40 points in the entire deck. You and your partner usually need 26 points to make a game; 33 points for a small slam; 37 for a grand slam.

In today's hand South opens the bidding and then shows that he has 16 points at most by the fact that his rebid is only one no-trump. Actually South has only 13 points in high cards, and 1 point for his doubleton.

North is willing to reach a game even though he knows that South has a minimum opening bid. North has a count of 13 points in high cards, and knows that South must have about the same amount. The combined hands are therefore sure to contain 26 points usually needed for game.

When the hand is played, South allows East to win the first trick with the jack of hearts. Declarer wins the second trick in dummy with the king of hearts, and returns the nine of diamonds at once.

The contract now stands or falls on East's defense. If East plays his low diamond, South will finesse and lose to West's queen of diamonds. West will then clear the heart suit, but cannot defeat the contract.

South wins the ace of hearts and knocks out the ace of diamonds. East cannot lead a heart, and South is therefore able to win two hearts, three diamonds, four clubs, and a spade.

East can defeat the contract by hopping up with the ace of diamonds the first time that suit is led. He can then return his last heart, thus establishing his partner's suit. West will get the lead with the queen of diamonds in time to run the rest of the hearts, thus setting the contract.

Father Tom's Column

By FRANK TRIPP

There lived in our town when I was a boy, a most remarkable man, a preacher who also wrote a weekly newspaper column. He was Thomas K. Beecher, brother of Henry Ward Beecher and Harriet Beecher Stowe, and intimate of Mark Twain. The community affectionately called him Father Tom.

I am writing this from the scrapbook into which he pasted his newspaper columns from March 1879 to December 1883. Reading them reveals how inadequate are those we read now. Father Tom was thinking 50 years into the future. For example:

Maine was the first state to have prohibition of the liquor traffic, brought about by its governor, Neal Dow. Father Tom declared that it was a failure. What he said got wide attention, and pronto he and Governor Dow locked horns.

In the midst of their debate, Mr. Beecher caused himself to be interviewed by himself in one of his columns. He assumed the role of both reporter and the interviewed. He had the reporter begin:

"I FOUND the eccentric divine rather shabbily dressed, in a little room over his barn. It was raining and he had been fixing his pump and repairing a window sash." Then into the interview:

Reporter—"You say that prohibition in Maine is a failure; Governor Dow says that it is a success."

Beecher—"Governor Dow says that it is a success, that repeatedly the Democratic party by an immense majority has voted down a resolution in favor of license. Surely the Democratic party in Maine cannot be regular, if it goes back on whiskey. No wonder that it made no headway against the Greenbacks." (Beecher was a Greenback).

Reporter—"You are in favor of prohibition are you not and think it would be a salutary law?"

Beecher—"Well, if there was no whiskey in town nobody would drink any, that's clear. If there were no women there would be no harlots; if there was no money there would be less gambling. If there were no pistols and gunpowder it would diminish murder; if there were no matches there would be less arson. If there were no valuables in our houses burglaries would cease. Yes, that's one way to diminish crime—reduce the temptation, abolish the opportunities."

REPORTER—"BUT YOU don't commit yourself. I want you to say, are you or are you not in favor of prohibitory laws—yes or no?"

Becher — "You newspapermen don't read the Bible much, do you? Perhaps though you may remember that the Lord put trees of temptation in the Garden. Had there been none, Adam had not sinned. Perhaps you remember the apostle saying count it all joy when you fall into divers temptations.

"Considering how men act, perhaps it would be worth while to take a promising young man, wash him up, comb his hair, put him in a glass case, keep him warm by a kerosene lamp like eggs in an incubator; keep off the wind, keep out the frost, close his eyes, fold his hands on his breast; elongate his mouth to a saintly expression and never let him out.

"AND SO tote him through the country, an example of a sinless young man, saved from stain by prohibitory care. It would be edifying; a young man absolutely without fault because he had been kept from temptation or trial; a specimen of what young men might become if we only had prohibitory laws enough.

"Young man! do you drink liquor? If you do, let me ask you as an expert—and you look like one—"

End of interview. The reporter closed his story thus: "There was a look in Mr. Becher's eyes as he spoke that reminded me that I was in a hurry; pleading another engagement. I came right along."

Father Tom was as anti-liquor as he was anti-prohibition, but it took the nation 53 years to discover what he was preaching in 1880.

Chris Won't Appear

Copenhagen, Denmark, Dec. 15 (AP)—Christine Jørgensen, the boy who became a girl, said today an invitation by the New York Press Photographers Association to take part in its annual beauty contest was "quite a big honor" but she has "no plans to appear in person." However, said the former soldier from the Bronx in New York, "they are welcome to use any picture of me in existence." Asked about her return to New York, Christine said nothing definite had yet been planned. She is busy now preparing for a showing tonight of a color film she has made on Denmark.

Lewis Sends $10,000

Tokyo, Dec. 15 (AP)—A $10,000 check from John L. Lewis arrived today in support of the 60-day-old nation-wide strike of Japan's Federation of Coal Miners Unions. Federation Chairman Akira Tanaka announced receipt of the check from the head of the United Mine Workers of America just as the Japanese government called for a 50-day suspension of the strike.

THIS WAS MEANT FOR SHOOTING? — NATO commander Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway and Mrs. Ridgway gaze with amazement at an ancient, ornate cannon at the Palazzo Ducale, in Venice, Italy. The cannon, a Middle Ages ancestor of today's sleek, deadly engines of war is on display in the castle's museum. General Ridgway visited the palace during a troop-inspection tour of Northern Italy.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Use of Point Count Helps Bridge Game

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Monday is bridge lesson day, and as usual I will discuss bidding according to the point-count method so that beginners and average players can see how the experts bid. Just in case you're not familiar with the point-count, here it is: Count 4 points for each ace in your hand; 3 for each king; 2 for each queen; 1 for each jack.

There are 10 points in each suit, and 40 points in the entire deck. You and your partner usually need 26 points to make a game; 33 points for a small slam; 37 for a grand slam.

In today's hand South opens the bidding and then shows that he has 16 points at most by the fact that his rebid is only one no-trump. Actually South has only 13 points in high cards, and 1 point for his doubleton.

North is willing to reach a game even though he knows that South has a minimum opening bid. North has a count of 13 points in high cards, and knows that South must have about the same amount. The combined hands are therefore sure to contain 26 points usually needed for game.

	NORTH	15

Opening lead—♥ 5

When the hand is played, South allows East to win the first trick with the jack of hearts. Declarer wins the second trick in dummy with the king of hearts, and returns the nine of diamonds at once.

The contract now stands or falls on East's defense. If East plays his low diamond, South will finesse and lose to West's queen of diamonds. West will then clear the heart suit, but cannot defeat the contract.

South wins the ace of hearts and knocks out the ace of diamonds. East cannot lead a heart, and South is therefore able to win two hearts, three diamonds, four clubs, and a spade.

East can defeat the contract by hopping up with the ace of diamonds the first time that suit is led. He can then return his last heart, thus establishing his partner's suit. West will get the lead with the queen of diamonds in time to run the rest of the hearts, thus setting the contract.

Will Star in Movie

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Civil defense workers in nine New York state cities star in a documentary film on the founding and development of the State Civil Defense organization. The 25-minute film is ready for showing on television or at C-D meetings, the Civil Defense Commission said yesterday. Scenes were filmed in New York city, Albany, Utica, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, White Plains and Schenectady. Volunteers are shown performing all phases of C-D activity. The film was prepared by the radio-motion picture bureau of the State Department of Commerce.

Father Tom's Column

By FRANK TRIPP

There lived in our town when I was a boy, a most remarkable man, a preacher who also wrote a weekly newspaper column. He was Thomas K. Beecher, brother of Henry Ward Beecher and Harriet Beecher Stowe, and intimate of Mark Twain. The community affectionately called him Father Tom.

I am writing this from the scrapbook into which he pasted his newspaper columns from March 1879 to December 1883. Reading them reveals how inadequate are those we read now. Father Tom was thinking 50 years into the future. For example:

Maine was the first state to have prohibition of the liquor traffic, brought about by its governor, Neal Dow. Father Tom declared that it was a failure. What he said got wide attention, and pronto he and Governor Dow locked horns.

In the midst of their debate, Mr. Beecher caused himself to be interviewed by himself in one of his columns. He assumed the role of both reporter and the interviewed. He had the reporter begin:

"I FOUND the eccentric divine rather shabbily dressed, in a little room over his barn. It was raining and he had been fixing his pump and repairing a window sash." Then into the interview:

Reporter—"You say that prohibition in Maine is a failure; Governor Dow says that it is a success."

Beecher—"Governor Dow says that it is a success, that repeatedly the Democratic party by an immense majority has voted down a resolution in favor of license. Surely the Democratic party in Maine cannot be regular, if it goes back on whiskey. No wonder that it made no headway against the Greenbacks." (Beecher was a Greenback).

Reporter—"You are in favor of prohibition are you not and think it would be a salutary law?"

Beecher—"Well, if there was no whiskey in town nobody would drink any, that's clear. If there were no women there would be no harlots; if there was no money there would be less gambling. If there were no pistols and gunpowder it would diminish murder; if there were no matches there would be less arson. If there were no valuables in our houses burglaries would cease. Yes, that's one way to diminish crime—reduce the temptation, abolish the opportunities."

REPORTER—"BUT YOU don't commit yourself. I want you to say, are you or are you not in favor of prohibitory laws—yes or no?"

Becher — "You newspapermen don't read the Bible much, do you? Perhaps though you may remember that the Lord put trees of temptation in the Garden. Had there been none, Adam had not sinned. Perhaps you remember the apostle saying count it all joy when you fall into divers temptations.

"Considering how men act, perhaps it would be worth while to take a promising young man, wash him up, comb his hair, put him in a glass case, keep him warm by a kerosene lamp like eggs in an incubator; keep off the wind, keep out the frost, close his eyes, fold his hands on his breast; elongate his mouth to a saintly expression and never let him out.

"AND SO tote him through the country, an example of a sinless young man, saved from stain by prohibitory care. It would be edifying; a young man absolutely without fault because he had been kept from temptation or trial; a specimen of what young men might become if we only had prohibitory laws enough.

"Young man! do you drink liquor? If you do, let me ask you as an expert—and you look like one—"

End of interview. The reporter closed his story thus: "There was a look in Mr. Becher's eyes as he spoke that reminded me that I was in a hurry; pleading another engagement. I came right along."

Father Tom was as anti-liquor as he was anti-prohibition, but it took the nation 53 years to discover what he was preaching in 1880.

Chris Won't Appear

Copenhagen, Denmark, Dec. 15 (AP)—Christine Jørgensen, the boy who became a girl, said today an invitation by the New York Press Photographers Association to take part in its annual beauty contest was "quite a big honor" but she has "no plans to appear in person." However, said the former soldier from the Bronx in New York, "they are welcome to use any picture of me in existence." Asked about her return to New York, Christine said nothing definite had yet been planned. She is busy now preparing for a showing tonight of a color film she has made on Denmark.

Lewis Sends $10,000

Tokyo, Dec. 15 (AP)—A $10,000 check from John L. Lewis arrived today in support of the 60-day-old nation-wide strike of Japan's Federation of Coal Miners Unions. Federation Chairman Akira Tanaka announced receipt of the check from the head of the United Mine Workers of America just as the Japanese government called for a 50-day suspension of the strike.

Married in Woodstock, Sunday

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR LEE
(Wagenfohr Photo)

A 60-year friendship culminated in marriage Sunday afternoon at five o'clock in Woodstock, when Mrs. Mary A. Bonesteel, 76 years old, widow, of that village became the bride of Arthur Lee, 70, of Delhi. The Rev. Olney E. Cook, pastor of the Woodstock Lutheran Church, read the ceremony at the home of the bride. A reception for 18 guests followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Lee has always lived in the township of Woodstock. During the early years of her first marriage, she and her late husband befriended the then 10-year old Arthur Lee, whose parents had died and who during his school years, lived with the Bonesteels. Later, he married and resided in Delhi until some time following his first wife's death.

Although they had seen each other infrequently during the intervening years, the couple resumed their friendship two years ago, when Mr. Lee came to Lake Hill to work for the Quick family in whose residence, Mrs. Lee was a companion.

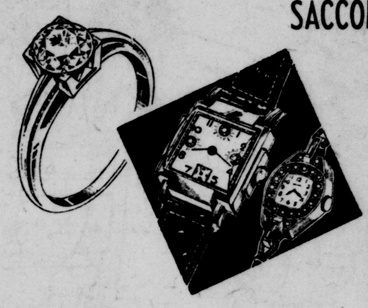

The bride is the mother of three children, living. They are Mrs. Abigail Stoutenburgh of this city; Paul Bonesteel, Woodstock, and Wilson Bonesteel of New York. She has 17 grandchildren and told a Freeman reporter this morning that she had lost count of the great-grandchildren but there are at least 30. Her brother is Frank Hyatt of his city.

The couple will reside in Woodstock. "I took care of him when he was little, and now he wants to take care of me," Mrs. Lee gaily confessed.

FRIEND-MAKING AMONG NEWCOMERS

A situation of concern to many is sent me in the following letter: "I know that it is the duty of the older residents to call on the newcomers in a community. That is fine, but what happens when one moves to a brand new development where all of the residents are 'new'—having all moved there around the same time. Each one seems to be waiting for the other to make the first gesture and the result is a stalemate."

Judging from your letter, you seem to have friendly inclinations and, therefore, it would be entirely proper for you to go to see your neighbors without waiting for them to come to see you. The majority of these will then certainly return the visit.

The Bride's Mother's Gloves

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married at a morning wedding and will wear full bridal clothes. My mother is going to wear a street-length afternoon dress. The saleslady at the store, where mother bought her dress, told her that she should wear long white kid gloves, that that was proper at a wedding. Will you please tell me if she is right?

Answer: I have never heard of a rule obliging the mother of the bride to wear white gloves. She wears gloves of a color most becoming to her dress and of a length suitable to her sleeves. (As a matter of fact, pale beige is more typical than white.)

Double Announcement Unusual

Dear Mrs. Post: When friends and relatives are telephoned the news of the arrival of a baby, should they also be sent the little birth announcements which are being mailed to other people?

Answer: To those who have already been telephoned or told, these announcements would be mere repetition—unless the baby had not been given a name at the time of the earlier announcement. In this case this additional information might perhaps serve as an excuse.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but if you are planning to have a small home wedding and would like to know how to decorate the home, you will find Mrs. Post's leaflet E-8 helpful. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Port Ewen Women Successfully Combine Hobbies and Housekeeping

MRS. FLOYD ELLSWORTH

MISS MARY BISHOP

MRS. WILLIAM ANDERSON

MISS BERTHA SEIBERT

Homemakers Pursue Lucrative Avocations, One Is '10 Freeman Bermuda Contest Winner

The art of combining successful homemaking with profitable avocations was demonstrated to a Freeman reporter this week during a visit to the village of Port Ewen. Here on route 9-W, designated as Broadway, and within a short distance of one another, were members of the distaff side busily engaged in a variety of pursuits.

An interview with Miss Mary Bishop, for ten years Port Ewen correspondent for the Freeman, disclosed that she had written her first story for the publication, 42 years ago this month, as one of eight winners in a county-wide subscription contest. An all-expense trip to Bermuda was given each of the top contestants and a chaperone.

Other hobbyists visited were Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth, Mrs. William Anderson and Miss Bertha Seibert.

Curious about the 42-year old story, we asked Miss Bishop for more details. "The late Jay Klock, then owner of the Freeman, asked each of the winners to write a story about Bermuda," said Miss Bishop. She wrote about a trip in a donkey cart, and laughingly remarked, "I never dreamed then that one day I'd be writing as the Port Ewen correspondent."

Recalls Trip

Recalling the contest and its fine reward, she described in detail a dinner at the old Eichler Hotel on December 29, 1909, with Mr. Klock as host to the travelers before they departed for New York City. They remained overnight there and went aboard the 5,530-ton SS Bermudian, the following afternoon. The group returned aboard the same vessel, and arrived in Kingston on January 10, 1910. "Mr. Klock was a most generous host. He thought of everything to give us a fine time, including a trip to the opera and the theatre while in New York, and even offered a prize to the one that was not seasick," said Miss Bishop as she confessed she could not claim the award.

Having resided in Port Ewen since she was three years old, this well known lady enjoys her important role in the community, as she writes the news about neighbors, their joys, sorrows, ambitions and accomplishments.

Mother of Six Has Miniature Shop

In the Shop on the Shelf, as Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth describes her hobby-business, we found many unusual handmade items, all of which were introduced by way of a practical need. Aluminum, etched trays; marriage trays, decorative candles, hand stencilled and utilitarian types of aprons, gift cards, tatted handkerchiefs, and fruit cakes were all attractively displayed for the holiday season.

Being curious about the "practical need," Mrs. Ellsworth, the mother of six children ranging in ages from eight and one half years to 18, explained, "I love to give presents but with six children to care for, little is left in the family budget for expensive gifts. The only way I knew to satisfy the gift-giving urge was to make them."

A resident of Maplewood, N. J., until the time of her marriage in 1930, Mrs. Ellsworth was graduated from the New Jersey College for Women, where she majored in Home Economics. For a short period prior to her marriage, she was a home economics consultant for the Public Service of New Jersey. Mr. Ellsworth who is associated with Island Dock, Inc., is a native of Port Ewen.

Also Teaches

Managing a home, husband, six children and a shop would be more than most persons could contemplate, but not so the lively Mrs. Ellsworth. She is also a substitute teacher at Kingston and New Paltz High Schools, and for the past three years has been a member of the Adult Education teaching staff at the former, where two nights each week she instructs in sewing and dressmaking.

The Shop is the realization of a dream long held, The Freeman reporter was told. "I have always liked to do things with my hands and almost as long as I can remember, hoped one day to have a gift shop. When the children were younger, there was much sewing to be done.

Children Assist

"Isn't there even more to do now that the children are in the teenage group?" we queried. Mrs. Ellsworth admitted to that, but being the good manager she obviously is, has encouraged and trained the children to participate in the household chores. "They all make their own beds before going to school and have individual duties in the home. The girls have all been taught to sew. The three older ones make most of their own clothes," she said.

Walter, the eldest child, is a freshman at the College of Agriculture, Cornell University. The other children are Nelson, 16 years old; Nancy, 14; Mary, 12; Joan, 11; and Sally eight and one-half years. All are members of the 4-H Club and their mother told us with great pride that their combined efforts won over $200 in prizes at the 1952 Ulster County Fair.

Freeman Ad Brings Business

Although Mrs. Ellsworth has been making fruit cake for her family and a few friends for a number of years, the project was launched into a small business enterprise when she placed what she described as a "very small advertisement in The Freeman. I had so many orders from this really inconsequential ad," she continued, "that whenever the budget permits, I resort to Freeman advertising for more customers." Besides the fruit cakes, the busy lady also takes orders for angel, chiffon and layer cakes.

The favorite helpers, her children, all "pitch in" to relieve the pressure at holiday time by doing extra chores, and assisting with the gift wrapping for the cakes and other articles. In a way, the Shop on the Shelf is a family project because to Mr. Ellsworth goes credit for the attractive sign which appears in front of the shop located on 9-W in Port Ewen. He, too, is responsible for the addition to the house which makes the shop possible.

Hesitantly, we asked the lady if she had any other activities. "Oh, yes," came the quick reply, "I am the local leader of the 4-H Club, a school director in the town of Esopus, active in the Port Ewen Reformed Church, a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Child Study Club 1, and recently appointed senior president of the Children of the American Revolution.

Like Port Ewen Hospitality

The Freeman photographer and reporter were impressed with the special folksy brand of hospitality found in the village of Port Ewen. Arriving at the home of Miss Bertha Seibert, corner of Stout avenue and Broadway, they found a note inviting them to "come in and make yourself comfortable. I am feeding the chickens."

A professional dressmaker in New York city before taking up residence in Port Ewen in 1920, Miss Seibert produced samples of her varied hobbies, which included stuffed dolls and animals, handmade lace, doll wardrobes, hand embroidery, and a small flock of chickens. She also cares for her large home and grounds and plants a sizeable garden.

Like most of the hobbyists, the former dressmaker began her avocation by making presents for her niece and the children of her friends. Gradually, she found herself filling orders and is very happy about it all.

Floriculture

Arriving at the home of another busy mother and housewife, Mrs. William J. Anderson, we were ushered into the dining room, temporarily converted into a Christmas workshop. Here, the well-known local gardener was pursuing her favorite seasonal hobby, that of creating wreaths and sprays for "problem doors."

It was fascinating to watch Mrs. Anderson at work during the interview. With a professional touch, her nimble fingers demonstrated the making of a stunning wreath, while she told us of the beginning of her paying project.

Since her childhood, Mrs. Anderson, the former Miss Barbara Vanderveer of this city, has been interested in "growing things and making nosegays." It was not until her husband acquired an extensive collection of chrysanthemums and roses, however, that she really thought of it in terms of a paying hobby.

Husband, Collector

In his collection, Mr. Anderson, who is a night supervisor at Hercules Powder Company, has 197 named varieties of chrysanthemums and 70 named roses. During the blooming seasons, visitors abound at the Anderson gardens to enjoy the beautiful sight.

"Bill," referring to Mr. Anderson, "is the true horticulturist," we were told. His chief interest is to produce perfect specimens. Because of the large investment in the hundreds of plants, Mrs. Anderson began to consider the possibility of some financial return. This was made possible by selling the cut flowers and making corsages.

Takes Home Bureau Course

To increase her knowledge and perfect her work, she attended the annual floriculture courses given in the municipal auditorium by Raymond Fox, an expert in this field. He is sponsored by the Ulster County Home Bureau.

During the past seven years the Andersons have resided in Port Ewen, they have acquired a sizeable gardening library.

"I do most of my work in the evenings, after the children have retired," Mrs. Anderson said. The children, Jane, 10 years of age, Gretchen, 8 years and William, 6, are particularly helpful during the harvest season. They assist, too, with weeding and similar chores. "The only difficulty is that they prefer to work with the vegetables they like to eat. They are not very much interested in the varieties they don't care about," said Mrs. Anderson.

Up to this point, we hadn't discussed vegetable growing but it is an important project with the family group. They plant approximately one acre in vegetables for table use and freezing. A 16-foot deep freeze unit is now completely filled with vegetables and small fruits all raised by the Andersons. Hndreds of jars of pickles and canned fruits are also prepared annually by Mrs. Anderson. These are used for the family and for gift-giving.

Flower Show Champion

The winner of the 1950 three-year challenge trophy at the West Park Flower Show, Mrs. Anderson has also been the champion exhibitor at that show for the past two years in competition for another three-year challenge trophy. She has been awarded blues and other ribbons at the County Fair, the New Paltz Garden Club Show and others.

Although the information was not solicited, it was pleasing to hear that most of the Anderson clients come to them through Freeman advertising. "How can you be certain of this," we queried, realizing that the couple has a wide acquaintance in the county. "We could not afford to advertise if it didn't pay for itself. So, we ask newcomers how they heard about us, and that is the method we have used to check the return on our advertising expenditures." It was obvious the Andersons were well satisfied with their individual survey.

The Home Bureau and 4-H Clubs were highly commended by Mrs. Anderson when she mentioned "the wonderful programs they sponsor for the young people and the adults." Her eldest daughter, Jane, is a member of the 4-H Club, and she expects the other children will also become members.

Active in the Kingston Junior League, the vivacious and charming Mrs. Anderson is also a member of the New Paltz Garden Club, local Home Bureau, Dutchess County Home Bureau, and the Garden Study Club in Poughkeepsie.

Homemakers Pursue Lucrative Avocations, One Is '10 Freeman Bermuda Contest Winner

The art of combining successful homemaking with profitable avocations was demonstrated to a Freeman reporter this week during a visit to the village of Port Ewen. Here on route 9-W, designated as Broadway, and within a short distance of one another, were members of the distaff side busily engaged in a variety of pursuits.

An interview with Miss Mary Bishop, for ten years Port Ewen correspondent for the Freeman, disclosed that she had written her first story for the publication, 42 years ago this month, as one of eight winners in a county-wide subscription contest. An all-expense trip to Bermuda was given each of the top contestants and a chaperone.

Other hobbyists visited were Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth, Mrs. William Anderson and Miss Bertha Seibert.

Curious about the 42-year old story, we asked Miss Bishop for more details. "The late Jay Klock, then owner of the Freeman, asked each of the winners to write a story about Bermuda," said Miss Bishop. She wrote about a trip in a donkey cart, and laughingly remarked, "I never dreamed then that one day I'd be writing as the Port Ewen correspondent."

Recalls Trip

Recalling the contest and its fine reward, she described in detail a dinner at the old Eichler Hotel on December 29, 1909, with Mr. Klock as host to the travelers before they departed for New York City. They remained overnight there and went aboard the 5,530-ton SS Bermudian, the following afternoon. The group returned aboard the same vessel, and arrived in Kingston on January 10, 1910. "Mr. Klock was a most generous host. He thought of everything to give us a fine time, including a trip to the opera and the theatre while in New York, and even offered a prize to the one that was not seasick," said Miss Bishop as she confessed she could not claim the award.

Having resided in Port Ewen since she was three years old, this well known lady enjoys her important role in the community, as she writes the news about neighbors, their joys, sorrows, ambitions and accomplishments.

Mother of Six Has Miniature Shop

In the Shop on the Shelf, as Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth describes her hobby-business, we found many unusual handmade items, all of which were introduced by way of a practical need. Aluminum, etched trays; marriage trays, decorative candles, hand stencilled and utilitarian types of aprons, gift cards, tatted handkerchiefs, and fruit cakes were all attractively displayed for the holiday season.

Being curious about the "practical need," Mrs. Ellsworth, the mother of six children ranging in ages from eight and one half years to 18, explained, "I love to give presents but with six children to care for, little is left in the family budget for expensive gifts. The only way I knew to satisfy the gift-giving urge was to make them."

A resident of Maplewood, N. J., until the time of her marriage in 1930, Mrs. Ellsworth was graduated from the New Jersey College for Women, where she majored in Home Economics. For a short period prior to her marriage, she was a home economics consultant for the Public Service of New Jersey. Mr. Ellsworth who is associated with Island Dock, Inc., is a native of Port Ewen.

Also Teaches

Managing a home, husband, six children and a shop would be more than most persons could contemplate, but not so the lively Mrs. Ellsworth. She is also a substitute teacher at Kingston and New Paltz High Schools, and for the past three years has been a member of the Adult Education teaching staff at the former, where two nights each week she instructs in sewing and dressmaking.

Socialists to Abandon Presidential Routine

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—The national executive committee of the Socialist party has voted against running any more candidates for national office.

Norman Thomas, confirming that action, said today the Socialists and other minor parties don't have much chance now to elect national officers.

Thomas, a leader in the move to drop national nominees, said "socialism and the Socialist party are not going out of business, however."

He added that he believes that at present the running of Socialist candidates "arouses irritation rather than support" among those who in other years might have been counted on for votes.

A M.A. Forwarding Company tractor-trailer out of Albany tipped over on Route 9W at Esopus about 1:45 a. m. today, state police reported. They were identified as John Edgar Falter, 20, Donald Lester Barlipp, 20, Charles Leroy Baker, age unknown and Harry Mathias Benzinger, 19.

Regional WSB Hits Truman but Plans To Continue Work

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—The seven industry members of the region 2 wage stabilization board say they do not like the administration's handling of the coal pay boost, but only one member says he will resign.

All six remaining on the regional board for New York State and northern New Jersey say they are doing so "solely in the public interest" because of a backlog of cases which have to be ruled on.

The industry members' decisions, taken at a meeting here a week ago, were announced over the weekend by Carl J. Nagle, of the Fairmont Food Co., Buffalo.

Nagle said he and his colleagues "unanimously condemn" President Truman's decision to award the coal miners the $1.90 a day raise they had negotiated with operators. Truman's action set aside a WSB recommendation that the boost be limited to $1.50 a day.

He and his associates, Nagle added, "commend the views of the former chairman of the national board, and of the industry members, who resigned unanimously in eloquent protest."

In the future, Nagle said, the remaining regional industry members will judge wage petitions with the standards "in effect prior to the coal case."

Nagle said those remaining on the regional board include all four regular industry members and two of three alternates.

Alternate Resigns

The third alternate, Tracy Ferguson, a Syracuse, N. Y., attorney, said he agreed with what other members had to say but that he was resigning anyway.

Those remaining are Nagle; Alexander M. Green Jr., vice president of the Ward Baking Company, New York; Leonard C. Johnson, director of industrial relations, New Jersey manufacturers' association, Trenton; Harold J. Mc Cormack, director of industrial relations, A. M. Karagheusian Inc., Freehold, N. J.; Ernest De La Ossa, personnel director, National Broadcasting Company, New York; and Joseph F. Wildebush, vice president, silk and rayon printers and dyers association of America Inc., Paterson, N. J.

Auto Overturns

An automobile driven by Joseph Paterno, 47, of Englewood, N. J., overturned on Route 9W near Ulster Park about 6:40 p. m. Sunday. State police said the vehicle, traveling south, went off the right side of the highway, then veered to the left and turned over on the pavement. Paterno's nephew, Robert Paterno, 9, was riding in the automobile, troopers said. No personal injuries were reported.

WSB Begins Work On Pay Backlog

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—The government prodded its limping wage stabilization program back into action today to accommodate unions and employers with 12,000 wage boosts awaiting an official okay.

Administration of the entire pay controls setup was changed over the weekend with President Truman, despairing of getting industry men back into service on the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB), turned the problem over to Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam.

Putnam, whose own resignation takes him out of government in a few days, turned the situation over to Chairman Charles C. Killingsworth and three other public members of the WSB. They were empowered to carry on wage controls.

Will Seek 'Advice'

Instead of the WSB with equal numbers of members representing the public, industry and labor, Killingsworth and his three public members are to administer wage controls. They asked the labor members to stand by for "advice" in handling future cases.

It seemed probable that, although Putnam held out hope for wooing industry men back to posts on the wage board, pay curbs in the five weeks until the new Republican administration comes into power will be handled by Killingsworth's wholly-governmental setup, without formal labor and industry help.

Sponge Pads

The history of sponges dates back to the time of Aristotle, when Greek warriors used them to pad their helmets. Not until the middle of the 19th century did microscopic research definitely prove them to be animals and not plants.

Former Society Editor To Receive Award

JEAN SMALL MELE

According to information received today by The Freeman, Mrs. Jean Small Mele, former Associated Press staff writer and one-time society editor of the Kingston Daily Freeman, is one of four talented persons who will receive Woodstock Foundation awards.

The same source which revealed that Mrs. Mele was slated for an award, also reported that the other three winners are Louise Brokenshaw, ceramic artist of Shady; Reginald Wilson, painter, and Salvatore Sirugo, painter, of Zena.

With the Associated Press Mrs. Mele covered such social events as the annual opening of the Metropolitan Opera, the famous Fifth avenue Easter Parade and events sponsored by personnel of the United Nations.

In Woodstock Six Years

A resident of Woodstock for the past six years, Mrs. Mele is no stranger here. She came to this area at the age of two months and has been returning regularly ever since. For the past two years she has been spending the winter months in Pittsburgh where her husband, Frank Mele, violist and also a former Woodstock Foundation Award winner, is with the Pittsburgh Symphony. Prior to her marriage to Frank Mele, she was Miss Jean Small. The Mele's have a son, Andre, aged three and a half.

Had Wide Experience

Mrs. Mele, who has been spending the past two summers in Woodstock devoting herself to the completion of two plays, has a rich background as a writer. She has worked in the society department of the Miami Daily News in Florida and has covered many socially prominent persons in New York, including visiting royalty, Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Truman and Margaret Truman, and motion picture stars. Among the nationally important stories she covered for the Associated Press was the funeral of President Roosevelt at Hyde Park.

She left the Associated Press for a year's assignment in Europe as reporter and copy editor for the army newspaper Stars and Stripes, and was officially commended for her work on the dramatic Alpine plane crash-and-rescue story.

Socialists to Abandon Presidential Routine

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—The national executive committee of the Socialist party has voted against running any more candidates for national office.

Norman Thomas, confirming that action, said today the Socialists and other minor parties don't have much chance now to elect national officers.

Thomas, a leader in the move to drop national nominees, said "socialism and the Socialist party are not going out of business, however."

He added that he believes that at present the running of Socialist candidates "arouses irritation rather than support" among those who in other years might have been counted on for votes.

Trailer Tips Over

A M.A. Forwarding Company tractor-trailer out of Albany tipped over on Route 9W at Esopus about 1:45 a. m. today, state police reported. Driver John Hoffmeister, 25, of Albany, who was not reported injured, told troopers the vehicle jacknifed and turned over on its side when he swerved to avoid an unknown northbound automobile.

Five Sailors Killed

Saluda, Va., Dec. 15 (AP)—Five sailors were killed Friday night when their car was in collision with a Greyhound bus near here. Four of the seamen, all from Baltimore, were killed instantly. They were identified as John Edgar Falter, 20, Donald Lester Barlipp, 20, Charles Leroy Baker, age unknown and Harry Mathias Benzinger, 19.

Regional WSB Hits Truman but Plans To Continue Work

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—The seven industry members of the region 2 wage stabilization board say they do not like the administration's handling of the coal pay boost, but only one member says he will resign.

All six remaining on the regional board for New York State and northern New Jersey say they are doing so "solely in the public interest" because of a backlog of cases which have to be ruled on.

The industry members' decisions, taken at a meeting here a week ago, were announced over the weekend by Carl J. Nagle, of the Fairmont Food Co., Buffalo.

Nagle said he and his colleagues "unanimously condemn" President Truman's decision to award the coal miners the $1.90 a day raise they had negotiated with operators. Truman's action set aside a WSB recommendation that the boost be limited to $1.50 a day.

He and his associates, Nagle added, "commend the views of the former chairman of the national board, and of the industry members, who resigned unanimously in eloquent protest."

In the future, Nagle said, the remaining regional industry members will judge wage petitions with the standards "in effect prior to the coal case."

Nagle said those remaining on the regional board include all four regular industry members and two of three alternates.

Alternate Resigns

The third alternate, Tracy Ferguson, a Syracuse, N. Y., attorney, said he agreed with what other members had to say but that he was resigning anyway.

Those remaining are Nagle; Alexander M. Green Jr., vice president of the Ward Baking Company, New York; Leonard C. Johnson, director of industrial relations, New Jersey manufacturers' association, Trenton; Harold J. Mc Cormack, director of industrial relations, A. M. Karagheusian Inc., Freehold, N. J.; Ernest De La Ossa, personnel director, National Broadcasting Company, New York; and Joseph F. Wildebush, vice president, silk and rayon printers and dyers association of America Inc., Paterson, N. J.

An automobile driven by Joseph Paterno, 47, of Englewood, N. J., overturned on Route 9W near Ulster Park about 6:40 p. m. Sunday. Paterno's nephew, Robert Paterno, 9, was riding in the automobile, troopers said. No personal injuries were reported.

WSB Begins Work On Pay Backlog

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—The government prodded its limping wage stabilization program back into action today to accommodate unions and employers with 12,000 wage boosts awaiting an official okay.

Administration of the entire pay controls setup was changed over the weekend with President Truman, despairing of getting industry men back into service on the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB), turned the problem over to Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam.

Putnam, whose own resignation takes him out of government in a few days, turned the situation over to Chairman Charles C. Killingsworth and three other public members of the WSB. They were empowered to carry on wage controls.

Will Seek 'Advice'

Instead of the WSB with equal numbers of members representing the public, industry and labor, Killingsworth and his three public members are to administer wage controls. They asked the labor members to stand by for "advice" in handling future cases.

It seemed probable that, although Putnam held out hope for wooing industry men back to posts on the wage board, pay curbs in the five weeks until the new Republican administration comes into power will be handled by Killingsworth's wholly-governmental setup, without formal labor and industry help.

The controversy leading to this situation was set off by Truman's handling of a coal miners' pay increase. He approved all of the miners' negotiated raise after the WSB had approved only part of it. The WSB's industry members resigned, accusing the President of yielding to political expediency.

Fiscal Officers Would Simplify New State Budget

Albany, Dec. 15 (AP)—Simplification of the state's 1953-54 budget by eliminating technical details is suggested by the legislature's top fiscal officers.

They also say the trimming would save about $3,000 by cutting 150 pages from the printed budget.

Republicans Walter J. Mahoney of Buffalo, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and D. Mallory Stephens of Brewster, chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, made the recommendation to Budget Director T. Norman Hurd yesterday.

Mahoney and Stephens proposed that the budget-makers "omit more of the minute detail in the maintenance and operation sections of the departments of correction, health, mental hygiene and social welfare."

They said this would "simplify the budget and make it more usable and more readable."

The details omitted still would be available to the public at the Division of the Budget, the Audit and Control Department, and individual departments.

Parrot Greets Customers

El Dorado, Ark. (AP) — People who patronize a small homey cafe on the south side of this Arkansas oil capital usually get something for their nickel besides a cup of coffee. Pedro, the parrot pet of the cafe, often gives the customer a conversation. Depending on his mood of the moment, Pedro greets patrons with a clear, unmistakable wolf whistle, a frendly "Hello," maybe a hospitable "Come in" or just blank scrutiny. In parting, Pedro may tell them "Come back," "Goodbye" or "Bye Bye." The bird once told a newcomer pettishly, "Shut the door, country boy! It's cold. His owners, Mr. and Mrs. Blondie Wells, have taught him such tricks as imitating an airplane motor when one of the pilots approaches, imitating a fire siren, and mocking the bark of a dog.

Investor Forum

BIG BUSINESS—BIG MEN

By Harry C. France

Uncle Sam is big business. The 1953 fiscal year budget will probably be around $85 billion. Perhaps, with this amount pared down, tax receipts will cover all expenses. If not, borrowing will continue.

Whatever the size of the government's budget, it is still big business. And even though General Eisenhower's new fiscal officers will not take over until Jan. 20, it is interesting to look into their backgrounds for a clue to their actions.

They are all big men. Every investor, every stockholder, every tax payer, every executive and every worker has a stake in what these men do. Prices, wages, costs and taxes are circumscribed by the economic forces that they will set in motion.

What they will actually do is sheer speculation. But none will do anything out of character. Their patterns of action were set years ago; they can be expected to conform to these patterns. I think that all investors should know something of the backgrounds of the three principal fiscal officers whom the President-elect has chosen for these high duties.

The budget director will be a very important man under the Eisenhower administration. His name is Joseph Morrell Dodge. Since 1933, he has been the president of one of the leading banks in the world's industrial center, Detroit. He is a man of big affairs whose interests include a trusteeship in a large hospital and a directorship of the American Red Cross.

He is a capable and a courageous executive. The good people of American can be thankful that such a leader is going to help sit on the spending lid in the immediate years ahead.

The defense secretary is one of the world's ablest industrialists. Charles Erwin Wilson has been president since 1941 of the corporation that has done more business in 10 years than any other enterprise has ever done. In 10 years his company has sold $50 billion of products around the world.

During the term of his presidency, the company's business has grown 300 per cent. This is not coincidence. In the world today there probably isn't a man with greater know-how than Wilson. And General Eisenhower is getting Wilson to quit the biggest executive job in the universe to work for Uncle Sam for 5 per cent of what he has been receiving. Let the cynics meditate on that.

The third man in this fiscal triumvirate is the new secretary of the treasury. He is also a big man. His name is George Magoffin Humphrey. Since 1929, he has been president of a steel corporation. Also, as an executive of large affairs, he has been a director of half a dozen ranking American corporations.

It is interesting, I think, to note that each of these three men was born in 1890. They have all been through the mill. Success, great success has attended their efforts. In the fiscal affairs of our government, they are the most important officials. Wages, salaries, prices, costs and taxes have been in the very center of their economic calculations for years.

General Eisenhower, it seems to me, is greatly to be commended for his influence on such an able group of big men. It is the kind of leadership that our country will need badly for the next four years.

It is no time to get bearish on economic America. Not when such capable and experienced executives are to handle Uncle Sam's multi-billion dollar annual budgets.

During 1953, it shall be my purpose in this column to write about the significant economic decisions and acts of Messrs. Dodge, Wilson and Humphrey. I think the country will be in good hands.

A rebirth of confidence in our free enterprise system may be on the horizon. Anyhow, right now, I would rather hold good stocks than dollars.

Fiscal Officers Would Simplify New State Budget

Albany, Dec. 15 (AP)—Simplification of the state's 1953-54 budget by eliminating technical details is suggested by the legislature's top fiscal officers.

They also say the trimming would save about $3,000 by cutting 150 pages from the printed budget.

Republicans Walter J. Mahoney of Buffalo, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and D. Mallory Stephens of Brewster, chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, made the recommendation to Budget Director T. Norman Hurd yesterday.

Mahoney and Stephens proposed that the budget-makers "omit more of the minute detail in the maintenance and operation sections of the departments of correction, health, mental hygiene and social welfare."

They said this would "simplify the budget and make it more usable and more readable."

The details omitted still would be available to the public at the Division of the Budget, the Audit and Control Department, and individual departments.

Parrot Greets Customers

El Dorado, Ark. (AP) — People who patronize a small homey cafe on the south side of this Arkansas oil capital usually get something for their nickel besides a cup of coffee. Pedro, the parrot pet of the cafe, often gives the customer a conversation. Depending on his mood of the moment, Pedro greets patrons with a clear, unmistakable wolf whistle, a frendly "Hello," maybe a hospitable "Come in" or just blank scrutiny. In parting, Pedro may tell them "Come back," "Goodbye" or "Bye Bye." The bird once told a newcomer pettishly, "Shut the door, country boy! It's cold. His owners, Mr. and Mrs. Blondie Wells, have taught him such tricks as imitating an airplane motor when one of the pilots approaches, imitating a fire siren, and mocking the bark of a dog.

BIG BUSINESS—BIG MEN

By Harry C. France

Uncle Sam is big business. The 1953 fiscal year budget will probably be around $85 billion. Perhaps, with this amount pared down, tax receipts will cover all expenses. If not, borrowing will continue.

Whatever the size of the government's budget, it is still big business. And even though General Eisenhower's new fiscal officers will not take over until Jan. 20, it is interesting to look into their backgrounds for a clue to their actions.

They are all big men. Every investor, every stockholder, every tax payer, every executive and every worker has a stake in what these men do. Prices, wages, costs and taxes are circumscribed by the economic forces that they will set in motion.

What they will actually do is sheer speculation. But none will do anything out of character. Their patterns of action were set years ago; they can be expected to conform to these patterns. I think that all investors should know something of the backgrounds of the three principal fiscal officers whom the President-elect has chosen for these high duties.

The budget director will be a very important man under the Eisenhower administration. His name is Joseph Morrell Dodge. Since 1933, he has been the president of one of the leading banks in the world's industrial center, Detroit. He is a man of big affairs whose interests include a trusteeship in a large hospital and a directorship of the American Red Cross.

He is a capable and a courageous executive. The good people of American can be thankful that such a leader is going to help sit on the spending lid in the immediate years ahead.

The defense secretary is one of the world's ablest industrialists. Charles Erwin Wilson has been president since 1941 of the corporation that has done more business in 10 years than any other enterprise has ever done. In 10 years his company has sold $50 billion of products around the world.

During the term of his presidency, the company's business has grown 300 per cent. This is not coincidence. In the world today there probably isn't a man with greater know-how than Wilson. And General Eisenhower is getting Wilson to quit the biggest executive job in the universe to work for Uncle Sam for 5 per cent of what he has been receiving. Let the cynics meditate on that.

The third man in this fiscal triumvirate is the new secretary of the treasury. He is also a big man. His name is George Magoffin Humphrey. Since 1929, he has been president of a steel corporation. Also, as an executive of large affairs, he has been a director of half a dozen ranking American corporations.

It is interesting, I think, to note that each of these three men was born in 1890. They have all been through the mill. Success, great success has attended their efforts. In the fiscal affairs of our government, they are the most important officials. Wages, salaries, prices, costs and taxes have been in the very center of their economic calculations for years.

General Eisenhower, it seems to me, is greatly to be commended for his influence on such an able group of big men. It is the kind of leadership that our country will need badly for the next four years.

It is no time to get bearish on economic America. Not when such capable and experienced executives are to handle Uncle Sam's multi-billion dollar annual budgets.

During 1953, it shall be my purpose in this column to write about the significant economic decisions and acts of Messrs. Dodge, Wilson and Humphrey. I think the country will be in good hands.

A rebirth of confidence in our free enterprise system may be on the horizon. Anyhow, right now, I would rather hold good stocks than dollars.

Albany State Teachers Hand New Paltz First Loss of Season, 80-67

Capital Cagers Move Ahead in Second Period

Andy Juhl Hits 23 For Orange Five

Albany State Teachers caught on fire in the second period and went on to hand New Paltz State its first basketball setback of the season, 80-67, Saturday at the NP gym.

Trailing 21-16 at the quarter, the capital city quintet hit for 23 points in the second period to move ahead 39-32 at the half.

Big Andy Juhl of Kingston continued in the role of high scorer for Coach Loren D. Campbell's quintet but the all-round shooting of the club was not up to the form displayed in early triumphs against Danbury Teachers and Drew University. It made its best showing with a 21-16 bulge in the first quarter.

New Paltz suffered a heavy blow when Dick King, veteran guard, was banished on fouls in the second period.

Juhl rimmed 23 points with nine fields and five fouls but had several chances to boost that total. Chet Hutton dropped 14 points.

Albany's best scorer was Walker who bucketed 16.

New Paltz meets Willimantic of Connecticut Friday at 4 p. m. at New Paltz.

SPORTS

By CHARLES I. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Echoes from the KHSAA Banquet: Red Barber, who has captivated more than 1000 persons in two local appearances, might have been one of the ecclesiastical giants of our time had his career been shaped in that direction. Instead, destiny directed that he leave his footprints on the sands of sportcasting and TV.

The Old Redhead who amused, scolded and delighted last week's KHSAA audience, was wittier than the Barber of two years ago. But his speech had the same high moral tone; it was filled with bright humor, witticisms, truisms. He is indeed a remarkable figure amid the crass commercialism of sports writing and TV reporting.

If you missed the speech, we repeat, you missed a classic.

Among other things he said: "Athletics should not be all or the end of all. The coach gets closer to boys than most parents do and the secret of great coaches is their ability to judge physical skills and blend them with the known human elements. Athletics teaches valuable lessons, but education must prepare people for the full life. Athletics is but one of the facets in that picture.

• Doesn't Fear TV Bugaboo:

In reply to a direct question on the effects of TV on sports attendance, Barber said the bright new industry is going through its "painful stages" at the moment but finally would fit in the equation of our time. Baseball at first banned radio, he said, but later was grateful for the increased attendance it helped create. TV will do the same for sports because it is a wonderful information technique. Radio made thousands of women baseball rooters. TV, in the long run, will be beneficial as a teacher of sports.

He picked Mickey Mantle over Jackie Jensen as the best choice for all-time stardom in major league baseball. He praised Mantle as the most remarkable switch hitter of all time and said his instinct surpassed Jensen's, who was a seasoned athlete when he came into the majors. "You don't play with those California teams without getting the baptism," he quipped. About all-winning teams, "when schools keep winning you can rest assured that the exceptional athletes just don't accidentally walk through the university portals."

A youngster asked about the telltale signs when a great athlete starts going over the hill. "A batter, especially a pull hitter when the line of his hits starts gravitating in the opposite first nearer center and then to the opposite field. Legs starting going, too; the player is subject to charley horses. When the pitcher loses the hop on his fast ball, the danger signs are up."

• Purging of Sports Not Yet Satisfactory:

The basketball scandal is driving the sport back to the campus where it belongs. The purging effect of the scandals has not been as strong or conclusive as it should be, Barber warned. College presidents and athletic directors and coaches should look into their own houses. Some colleges sold their athletic birthright for a mess of victories.

Other observations: The Phillies were coming on fast last year and could be tough in 1953. Warren Spahn might land with the Giants or Dodgers and make the difference. Charlie Dressen's job of piloting the Dodgers to the 1952 National League pennant without a first rate pitcher is without precedent in baseball annals. Eighteen pitchers figured in the won and lost column for the Bums. Joe Black, a reliefer, led with 15. Compare that to Cleveland which dropped two pennants in a row with three 20-game winners.

Barber's greatest thril; Cooky Lavagetto's ninth-inning single against the Yankees that broke up Bill Bevens' no-hitter and snatched victory from certain defeat for the dodgers. He gave another superb recreation of that classic inning.

There were several other items, interesting, amusing but space is running out. But, as he warned young men who might be more interested in athletics than preparing for the real problems of life, his Mississippi dad told the old Redhead when he set forth on his adventures down the highway of life: Son, there will be times when working for a living will get into the way of everything you want to do."

Hamburgers Hot In Special Match

The Kingston Lumber gals' treasury for the forthcoming trip to the Detroit WIBC nationals suffered a slight recession Saturday night at the Central Recreation alleys.

The Hamburger Paradise male trundlers trailed by 51 pins at the end of two games of the $100 challenge match but exploded with a 900 effort in the third set to rack up a 59-point decision.

The Hamburgers rolled 2541 to 2482 in the total pin match.

Frank Bruno powered 203-563 in the leadoff spot and F. J. Provenzano had 539 in the anchor slot for the winners. Miriam Posner led the Lumberettes with 526.

A return match has been scheduled in early January on alleys 7 and 8. Saturday's clash took place on alleys 3 and 4.

The St. Louis Cardinals came up with four fine rookie pitchers last season in Stu Miller, Ed Yuhas, Harvey Haddix and Wilmer Mizell.

Browns Capture American Title; Rams, Lions Tied in National

New York, Dec. 15 (AP) — The Cleveland Browns, a gridiron power since their organization in 1946, will play in their third straight National Football League championship game Dec. 28 but whether their opponent will be Los Angeles or Detroit is a matter that will not be decided until next Sunday.

The Browns, also four times winner of the defunct All-America Conference crown before joining the NFL, backed into the American Conference title yesterday. They dropped a 37-34 decision to the New York Giants while the Philadelphia Eagles, needing a victory for a tie, also fell before the Washington Redskins, 27-21.

Los Angeles' Rams also needed a win to tie Detroit's Lions for first place in the National Conference and they got it—a 28-14 triumph over the Pittsburgh Steelers before 74,130, which packed Los Angeles' Coliseum in 100-degree temperatures.

The Lions had gone a half-game ahead of the Rams with a 41-6 victory over Dallas Saturday but the Rams were equal to the occasion as they racked up their eighth successive victory behind the aerial wizardry of Norm Van Brocklin.

As a result, next Sunday—the date originally set for the championship game—will be used to determine the National Conference winner in Detroit. The league's title game is slated for Cleveland. A year ago the Rams beat the Browns for the title in Los Angeles.

Title for Soltau

Gordon Soltau of the San Francisco 49ers picked up six points via a field goal and three conversions in the 24-14 victory over Green Bay to win league scoring honors with 94 points. Cloyce Box, Detroit end, was second with 90 after adding 18 points Saturday.

The Rams' Dan Towler succeeded the Giants' Eddie Price as the circuit's top ground gainer with 894 yards in 156 carries. Lou (The Toe) Groza of Cleveland ran his league record for consecutive conversions to 104.

Two of the league's stars said farewell as active players and a third—Bob Waterfield of Los Angeles—played his last home game.

Sammy Baugh, for 16 years wearer of a Washington uniform, played very little in his finale and his last play was a failure. He held the ball for George Buksar's kick after Eddie Le Baron had sneaked over for Washington's winning touchdown in the final seconds and the kick was blocked.

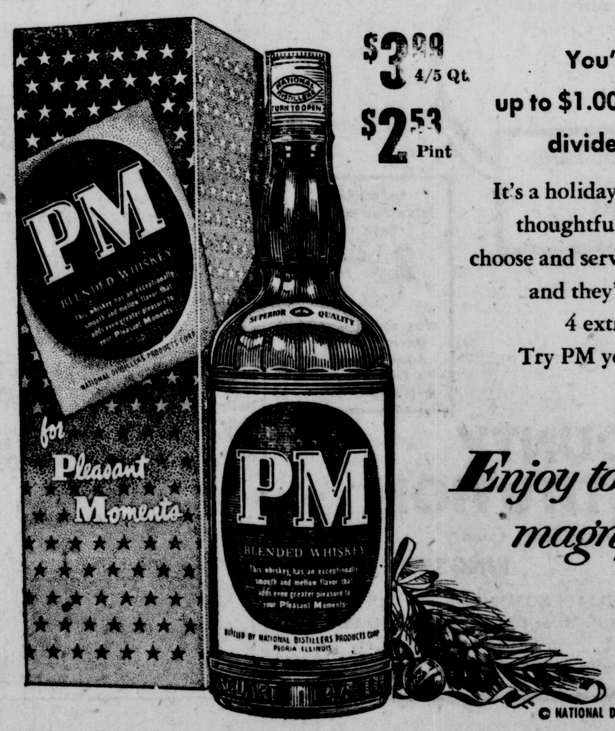

Frankie Albert, San Francisco's master of the "T", bowed ont with one of his fine displays of passing and calling of plays, Waterfield, however, yielded honors to teammate Van Brocklin, who tossed three touchdown passes.

In the other league game, the Chicago Bears edged the Chicago Cardinals, 10-7.

Capital Cagers Move Ahead in Second Period

Andy Juhl Hits 23 For Orange Five

Albany State Teachers caught on fire in the second period and went on to hand New Paltz State its first basketball setback of the season, 80-67, Saturday at the NP gym.

Trailing 21-16 at the quarter, the capital city quintet hit for 23 points in the second period to move ahead 39-32 at the half.

Big Andy Juhl of Kingston continued in the role of high scorer for Coach Loren D. Campbell's quintet but the all-round shooting of the club was not up to the form displayed in early triumphs against Danbury Teachers and Drew University. It made its best showing with a 21-16 bulge in the first quarter.

New Paltz suffered a heavy blow when Dick King, veteran guard, was banished on fouls in the second period.

Juhl rimmed 23 points with nine fields and five fouls but had several chances to boost that total. Chet Hutton dropped 14 points.

Albany's best scorer was Walker who bucketed 16.

New Paltz meets Willimantic of Connecticut Friday at 4 p. m. at New Paltz.

Echoes from the KHSAA Banquet: Red Barber, who has captivated more than 1000 persons in two local appearances, might have been one of the ecclesiastical giants of our time had his career been shaped in that direction. Instead, destiny directed that he leave his footprints on the sands of sportcasting and TV.

The Old Redhead who amused, scolded and delighted last week's KHSAA audience, was wittier than the Barber of two years ago. But his speech had the same high moral tone; it was filled with bright humor, witticisms, truisms. He is indeed a remarkable figure amid the crass commercialism of sports writing and TV reporting.

If you missed the speech, we repeat, you missed a classic.

Among other things he said: "Athletics should not be all or the end of all. The coach gets closer to boys than most parents do and the secret of great coaches is their ability to judge physical skills and blend them with the known human elements. Athletics teaches valuable lessons, but education must prepare people for the full life. Athletics is but one of the facets in that picture.

● Doesn't Fear TV Bugaboo:

In reply to a direct question on the effects of TV on sports attendance, Barber said the bright new industry is going through its "painful stages" at the moment but finally would fit in the equation of our time. Baseball at first banned radio, he said, but later was grateful for the increased attendance it helped create. TV will do the same for sports because it is a wonderful information technique. Radio made thousands of women baseball rooters. TV, in the long run, will be beneficial as a teacher of sports.

He picked Mickey Mantle over Jackie Jensen as the best choice for all-time stardom in major league baseball. He praised Mantle as the most remarkable switch hitter of all time and said his instinct surpassed Jensen's, who was a seasoned athlete when he came into the majors. "You don't play with those California teams without getting the baptism," he quipped. About all-winning teams, "when schools keep winning you can rest assured that the exceptional athletes just don't accidentally walk through the university portals."

A youngster asked about the telltale signs when a great athlete starts going over the hill. "A batter, especially a pull hitter when the line of his hits starts gravitating in the opposite first nearer center and then to the opposite field. Legs starting going, too; the player is subject to charley horses. When the pitcher loses the hop on his fast ball, the danger signs are up."

● Purging of Sports Not Yet Satisfactory:

The basketball scandal is driving the sport back to the campus where it belongs. The purging effect of the scandals has not been as strong or conclusive as it should be, Barber warned. College presidents and athletic directors and coaches should look into their own houses. Some colleges sold their athletic birthright for a mess of victories.

Other observations: The Phillies were coming on fast last year and could be tough in 1953. Warren Spahn might land with the Giants or Dodgers and make the difference. Charlie Dressen's job of piloting the Dodgers to the 1952 National League pennant without a first rate pitcher is without precedent in baseball annals. Eighteen pitchers figured in the won and lost column for the Bums, Joe Black, a reliefer, led with 15. Compare that to Cleveland which dropped two pennants in a row with three 20-game winners.

Barber's greatest thril; Cooky Lavagetto's ninth-inning single against the Yankees that broke up Bill Bevens' no-hitter and snatched victory from certain defeat for the dodgers. He gave another superb recreation of that classic inning.

There were several other items, interesting, amusing but space is running out. But, as he warned young men who might be more interested in athletics than preparing for the real problems of life, his Mississippi dad told the old Redhead when he set forth on his adventures down the highway of life: Son, there will be times when working for a living will get into the way of everything you want to do."

The St. Louis Cardinals came up with four fine rookie pitchers last season in Stu Miller, Ed Yuhas, Harvey Haddix and Wilmer Mizell.

Bill Dietrich was the last pitcher on the Chicago White Sox to hurl a no-hitter. It was against the Browns on June 1, 1937.

Powered by Lafayette "Champ" Holstein, Harry's Angels shaded Lincoln Park Inn, 94-92 in a set shooting classic Saturday in the YMCA "A" League.

Wiltwyck Motors flayed the 50 Club in the companion, 76-65.

In what Lou Schafer described as one of the finest exhibitions of long range shooting seen in several years on the Y court, the Angels led 47-39 at the half.

Holstein was the only player to deviate from the long range pattern, most of his baskets coming on fast driving layups. He hit with 13 fields and seven fouls for 33 points.

George Carpouzis returned to the Angels lineup with a 26-point effort, while Bob Sickler, a past master in the set shooting department, had a great night with 31 Lincoln points. Frank Sass contributed 20.

Schoonmaker Tops WMs

Cliff Schoonmaker holed 21 points to pace Wiltwycks' second half drive that overcame the 50 Club after a 29-29 halftime deadlock.

Vince Peck rimmed 19 points for the winners. Don Smith fired 15 for the 50 Club.

Rita Withholds Action

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Actress Rita Hayworth says she intends to withhold any divorce action against Prince Aly Khan until a financial settlement is reached for her daughter, Yasmin, 2. "It's my duty as a parent," she told newsmen Saturday when she arrived here from Europe aboard the Queen Elizabeth. Miss Hayworth, who said she would spend Christmas in Hollywood, described as "purely rumor" reports that Aly had established a $50,000-a-year trust fund for the child.

HOT SHOTS—The professional National Basketball Association has a fine crop of young forwards. Leo Barnhorst, left, is a fixture in the Fort Wayne lineup. Mel Hutchins, center, piles up points and sticks out on defense for Milwaukee. Vince Boryla paces the New York attack. (NEA)

Big Ed Weaver Slated for Vital Role in Army's 50th Basketball Campaign Starting Dec. 17 Against Ithaca

Big Ed Weaver of Kingston, who still retains to years of basketball eligibility at West Point, figures to be one of the standout performers as Army celebrates its 50th anniversary on the hardwoods this season.

Coach Elmer Ripley's Black Knights of the Hudson will mark the occasion by playing a 19-game schedule, busiest campaign in West Point history.

The 1952-53 opener is scheduled Wednesday, Dec. 17, at 4 p. m. against Ithaca College at the West Point field house.

Ripley, a veteran of 25 years of coaching, is hopeful the Cadets will be in a position to give Army followers something to cheer about in his second season at the Point.

Besides Weaver, a regular in 1951, who lost a year through ineligibility, there are other factors to make Ripley optimistic. The team is taller, faster and deeper. In addition they have the added advantage of having played a season under Rip's widely known "give-and-go" style of play.

Hannon Top Star

Bill Hannon, pivot man, who led the nation in rebounds last season is the only regular returning. Though only a second classman, the 6 foot 3 inch Westville, Ind. native is captain and spark of the team.

In Rip's opinion, Hannon is "indeed one of the finest players in the country." "He has a great pair of hands," say Rip, "and is most effective under the boards. He would make anyone's ball club."

Hannon tied West Point's individual game mark of 36 points and set a new season's total of 277.

Vince Bailey and "Tex" Ritter graduated and Kent Poore resigned. Freddie Meyers, the other starter, is still in the doubtful stage due to the leg injury suffered in football.

Reich Returns

Dick Reich, a set shot expert who lost a year due to a shoulder dislocation; Dick Littlefield, Bill Stuart and Weaver are the foursome who are expected to combine with Hannon for the first string five.

At 6 feet 3 inches and 210 pounds, Weaver is one of the "big men" on the Army squad. Littlefield came fast toward the end of last season to gain a starting berth against Navy. He stands 6 feet 2 and has a good jump shot.

Newcomers up from the Plebe squad include Joseph Thomer, 6 feet 3; John Strom, 6 feet 2, Rich Cardillo and Jerry Gilpin.

Another newcomer is Lowell Sisson, regular offensive end in football. A broken hand kept him out during last season.

Jackets Will Set Date for Reunion

Chairman Bill Scully of the Yellow Jacket committee planning a reunion of the famous football squad said the group would set a date for the big event at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at Cuneo's Restaurant.

Anyone who has information regarding the home address of former Yellow Jacket members who live out of town, or any former player who desires information is asked to write to the Yellow Jacket Committee, Cuneo's Restaurant, 618 Broadway. All former players are invited to attend tonight meeting.

New Ski Center Known as Snobakken Ready at Cragsmoor

The center is callen Snobakken, a Scandinavian name for "snow hill."

The main slope consists of an upper and lower section each serviced by rope tows and having a total vertical drop of 320 feet. The beginners slope has a gentle drop and will also have rope tows. All runs will be patrolled by the National Ski Patrol

Snobakken will be open Saturdays, Sundays and holidays from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Individual and group instructions are available, and a ski shop is set up to handle minor ski repairs. Skis may be rented.

Three Bros. Drop Game at IBM Gym

Three Brothers Farms outplayed the powerful IBM quintet on its own court in the second half, but the Bridge City cagers' early lead stood up for a 60-52 triumph, Sunday at the IBM Country Club.

Trailing 45-29 going into the stretch, the Three Bros. rallied with 23 points but were still far short at the final whistle.

The IBM squad opened up a 17-7 quarter lead and was in front 27-15 at the half.

Swanson bucketed 17 points and Murphy had 14 for the winners. Harold Hutton holed 12 for the Three Bros., with Bob Burger, Frank Fiore and Jim Ferraro hitting 10.

The Esopus quintet meets Wiltwyck Motors in a Y League contest Tuesday; Lincoln Center Varsity of Poughkeepsine at Wiltwyck court in Esopus on Thursday; and the Legion Veterans at Monticello on Saturday.

Marion Ladewig And Don Carter All-Star Champs

Chicago, Dec. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Marion Ladewig, the invincible bowling champion from Grand Rapids, Mich., started her Christmas shopping today in style with $600.

That's the amount she picked up last night after breezing to her fourth straight National All-Star title. The crown is worth many times more than the prize award in endorsements and fees for exhibitions every weekend."

In the 32 game finals of the nine-day meet, Mrs. Ladewig won 24 and lost only eight. She spilled 6,539 pins for an average of 204 and totalled 154.29 Petersen points.

Shirley Garms of Palatine, Ill., was second with 142.05 points.

The $2,000 men's award went to 26-year-old Don Carter of Detroit, a bowling instructor who used to set the leagues on fire in St. Louis. Carter averaged 205 through 64 games for 304.17 points.

Ed Lubanski, also of Detroit, matched Carter by winning 41 and losing 23 but trailed in pins 13,167 to 12,836. Lubanski's point score was 297.36. Bill Lillard of Chicago was third and Junie McMahon, defending champion from Fairlawn, N. J., took fourth.

Elstons Sweep Three; MironLumberBlanked

League Leaders Have Rough Going Saturday

Hudson Valley Bowling League leaders suffered two crushing setbacks Saturday night, the Ellenville Shanahans shutting out the Miron Lumberjacks and Elston's Sport Shop giving Arlington Lanes of Poughkeepsie the whitewash treatment at the Central Recs.

Veteran Cabs of Poughkeepsie dropped a set in Liberty enabling Miron Lumber to salvage a three-game lead after the disastrous safari to Ellenville.

Elston's started slowly against Arlington Lanes who suffered extreme jitters and blew 21 spares. The locals squeezed by the first set, 872-862, but dominated the next three. They unloaded 1066 to win the third game against Arlington's 1026.

In the big third set Phil Corrado blasted a 260 solo and Angie Ferraro shot 258. Tom Carlino tripled 607, with 212-213-182. Corrado hit 600 on the nose despite a 147 opener. Joe Marcus rolled 246-611 for the losers.

Greco Slams 682

Larry Weishaupt pounded 204-225-162-591 to pace the locals.

The lowly Ellenville Finkes registered a surprise 2-1 upset of Rapp's Express on the whiz kids' home lanes at the Bowlodrome, snatching the middle game by two pins, 943-941. They totalled 2700 to 2682 for the losers.

Frank Bandiero posted 206-567 for Ellenville. Joe Ruzzo shot 218-595 for Rapp's. Jim Moss had a 223 solo.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By AL McCLANE
(Fishing Editor)

If a fish strikes a lure and misses, does he normally or usually come back a second time? Here's a letter from one of our readers:

"I hooked a large brown trout last Summer on a streamer fly, and after playing him a few seconds he got off. I made another cast at the same fish and he immediately came back a second time but again got off. The third cast he just ignored and gradually moved out to deeper water. Now, what I want to know is, do fish feel pain, or don't they find anything unusual in being hooked, or what?

To my knowledge, it's generally conceded that fish don't feel pain—particularly the poet's "sting of the hook." There's no nerve system to relay the idea that hooks hurt.

I have seen fish strike at a lure and I've seen the same fish caught four times within a short period. In this case, a "wise" old brown trout swam a few feet away each time he was released, and with each cast he struck again. He finally learned by experience that a hook could get him out of water, and he gave up.

Lots of anglers could tell you of similar instances. While it's true that a fish will seldom come back a second time, I suspect that's because the fish has been caught on previous occasions and remembered it, or else he saw the angler, or he found the lure too artificial when he mouthed it.

You'll find, for instance, that with a soft rubber lure, fish are more apt to come back a second time because the bait "feels" natural when he b

Powered by Lafayette "Champ" Holstein, Harry's Angels shaded Lincoln Park Inn, 94-92 in a set shooting classic Saturday in the YMCA "A" League.

Wiltwyck Motors flayed the 50 Club in the companion, 76-65.

In what Lou Schafer described as one of the finest exhibitions of long range shooting seen in several years on the Y court, the Angels led 47-39 at the half.

Holstein was the only player to deviate from the long range pattern, most of his baskets coming on fast driving layups. He hit with 13 fields and seven fouls for 33 points.

George Carpouzis returned to the Angels lineup with a 26-point effort, while Bob Sickler, a past master in the set shooting department, had a great night with 31 Lincoln points. Frank Sass contributed 20.

Schoonmaker Tops WMs

Cliff Schoonmaker holed 21 points to pace Wiltwycks' second half drive that overcame the 50 Club after a 29-29 halftime deadlock.

Rita Withholds Action

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Actress Rita Hayworth says she intends to withhold any divorce action against Prince Aly Khan until a financial settlement is reached for her daughter, Yasmin, 2. "It's my duty as a parent," she told newsmen Saturday when she arrived here from Europe aboard the Queen Elizabeth. Miss Hayworth, who said she would spend Christmas in Hollywood, described as "purely rumor" reports that Aly had established a $50,000-a-year trust fund for the child.

HOT SHOTS—The professional National Basketball Association has a fine crop of young forwards. Leo Barnhorst, left, is a fixture in the Fort Wayne lineup. Mel Hutchins, center, piles up points and sticks out on defense for Milwaukee. Vince Boryla paces the New York attack. (NEA)

Big Ed Weaver Slated for Vital Role in Army's 50th Basketball Campaign Starting Dec. 17 Against Ithaca

Big Ed Weaver of Kingston, who still retains to years of basketball eligibility at West Point, figures to be one of the standout performers as Army celebrates its 50th anniversary on the hardwoods this season.

Coach Elmer Ripley's Black Knights of the Hudson will mark the occasion by playing a 19-game schedule, busiest campaign in West Point history.

The 1952-53 opener is scheduled Wednesday, Dec. 17, at 4 p. m. against Ithaca College at the West Point field house.

Ripley, a veteran of 25 years of coaching, is hopeful the Cadets will be in a position to give Army followers something to cheer about in his second season at the Point.

Besides Weaver, a regular in 1951, who lost a year through ineligibility, there are other factors to make Ripley optimistic. The team is taller, faster and deeper. In addition they have the added advantage of having played a season under Rip's widely known "give-and-go" style of play.

Hannon Top Star

Bill Hannon, pivot man, who led the nation in rebounds last season is the only regular returning. Though only a second classman, the 6 foot 3 inch Westville, Ind. native is captain and spark of the team.

In Rip's opinion, Hannon is "indeed one of the finest players in the country." "He has a great pair of hands," say Rip, "and is most effective under the boards. He would make anyone's ball club."

Hannon tied West Point's individual game mark of 36 points and set a new season's total of 277.

Vince Bailey and "Tex" Ritter graduated and Kent Poore resigned. Freddie Meyers, the other starter, is still in the doubtful stage due to the leg injury suffered in football.

Reich Returns

Dick Reich, a set shot expert who lost a year due to a shoulder dislocation; Dick Littlefield, Bill Stuart and Weaver are the foursome who are expected to combine with Hannon for the first string five.

At 6 feet 3 inches and 210 pounds, Weaver is one of the "big men" on the Army squad. Littlefield came fast toward the end of last season to gain a starting berth against Navy. He stands 6 feet 2 and has a good jump shot.

Newcomers up from the Plebe squad include Joseph Thomer, 6 feet 3; John Strom, 6 feet 2, Rich Cardillo and Jerry Gilpin.

Another newcomer is Lowell Sisson, regular offensive end in football. A broken hand kept him out during last season.

Jackets Will Set Date for Reunion

Chairman Bill Scully of the Yellow Jacket committee planning a reunion of the famous football squad said the group would set a date for the big event at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at Cuneo's Restaurant.

Anyone who has information regarding the home address of former Yellow Jacket members who live out of town, or any former player who desires information is asked to write to the Yellow Jacket Committee, Cuneo's Restaurant, 618 Broadway. All former players are invited to attend tonight meeting.

New Ski Center Known as Snobakken Ready at Cragsmoor

A new ski center, with a 1700-foot main slope and a 500-foot beginners slope, is now open at Cragsmoor, near Pine Bush, off Route 52, in Ulster county.

The center is callen Snobakken, a Scandinavian name for "snow hill."

The main slope consists of an upper and lower section each serviced by rope tows and having a total vertical drop of 320 feet. The beginners slope has a gentle drop and will also have rope tows. All runs will be patrolled by the National Ski Patrol.

Snobakken will be open Saturdays, Sundays and holidays from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Individual and group instructions are available, and a ski shop is set up to handle minor ski repairs. Skis may be rented.

Three Bros. Drop Game at IBM Gym

Three Brothers Farms outplayed the powerful IBM quintet on its own court in the second half, but the Bridge City cagers' early lead stood up for a 60-52 triumph, Sunday at the IBM Country Club.

Trailing 45-29 going into the stretch, the Three Bros. rallied with 23 points but were still far short at the final whistle.

The IBM squad opened up a 17-7 quarter lead and was in front 27-15 at the half.

Swanson bucketed 17 points and Murphy had 14 for the winners, Harold Hutton holed 12 for the Three Bros., with Bob Burger, Frank Fiore and Jim Ferraro hitting 10.

Marion Ladewig And Don Carter All-Star Champs

Chicago, Dec. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Marion Ladewig, the invincible bowling champion from Grand Rapids, Mich., started her Christmas shopping today in style with $600.

That's the amount she picked up last night after breezing to her fourth straight National All-Star title. The crown is worth many times more than the prize award in endorsements and fees for exhibitions every weekend."

In the 32 game finals of the nine-day meet, Mrs. Ladewig won 24 and lost only eight. She spilled 6,539 pins for an average of 204 and totalled 154.29 Peterson points.

Shirley Garms of Palatine, Ill., was second with 142.05 points.

The $2,000 men's award went to 26-year-old Don Carter of Detroit, a bowling instructor who used to set the leagues on fire in St. Louis. Carter averaged 205 through 64 games for 304.17 points.

Ed Lubanski, also of Detroit, matched Carter by winning 41 and losing 23 but trailed in pins 13,167 to 12,836. Lubanski's point score was 297.36. Bill Lillard of Chicago was third and Junie McMahon, defending champion from Fairlawn, N. J., took fourth.

Elstons Sweep Three; MironLumberBlanked

League Leaders Have Rough Going Saturday

Hudson Valley Bowling League leaders suffered two crushing setbacks Saturday night, the Ellenville Shanahans shutting out the Miron Lumberjacks and Elston's Sport Shop giving Arlington Lanes of Poughkeepsie the whitewash treatment at the Central Recs.

Veteran Cabs of Poughkeepsie dropped a set in Liberty enabling Miron Lumber to salvage a three-game lead after the disastrous safari to Ellenville.

Elston's started slowly against Arlington Lanes who suffered extreme jitters and blew 21 spares. The locals squeezed by the first set, 872-862, but dominated the next three. They unloaded 1066 to win the third game against Arlington's 1026.

In the big third set Phil Corrado blasted a 260 solo and Angie Ferraro shot 258. Tom Carlino tripled 607, with 212-213-182. Corrado hit 600 on the nose despite a 147 opener. Joe Marcus rolled 246-611 for the losers.

Greco Slams 682

Frank Greco paced the Shanahan rout of Miron's with a 682 blast at Ellenville. He tossed games of 265, 197 and 220. Sam Fisher clipped 206-216-585 and Shanahans totalled 2925 against a mediocre 2608 for the locals.

Larry Weishaupt pounded 204-225-162-591 to pace the locals.

The lowly Ellenville Finkes registered a surprise 2-1 upset of Rapp's Express on the whiz kids' home lanes at the Bowlodrome, snatching the middle game by two pins, 943-941. They totalled 2700 to 2682 for the losers.

Frank Bandiero posted 206-567 for Ellenville. Joe Ruzzo shot 218-595 for Rapp's. Jim Moss had a 223 solo.

By AL McCLANE
(Fishing Editor)

If a fish strikes a lure and misses, does he normally or usually come back a second time? Here's a letter from one of our readers:

"I hooked a large brown trout last Summer on a streamer fly, and after playing him a few seconds he got off. I made another cast at the same fish and he immediately came back a second time but again got off. The third cast he just ignored and gradually moved out to deeper water. Now, what I want to know is, do fish feel pain, or don't they find anything unusual in being hooked, or what?

To my knowledge, it's generally conceded that fish don't feel pain—particularly the poet's "sting of the hook." There's no nerve system to relay the idea that hooks hurt.

I have seen fish strike at a lure and I've seen the same fish caught four times within a short period. In this case, a "wise" old brown trout swam a few feet away each time he was released, and with each cast he struck again. He finally learned by experience that a hook could get him out of water, and he gave up.

Lots of anglers could tell you of similar instances. While it's true that a fish will seldom come back a second time, I suspect that's because the fish has been caught on previous occasions and remembered it, or else he saw the angler, or he found the lure too artificial when he mouthed it.

You'll find, for instance, that with a soft rubber lure, fish are more apt to come back a second time because the bait "feels

Eisenhower Works

Gets Facts on Formosa

Perhaps significantly, he listed "our military advisory representative from Formosa" as one of the officers with whom he had a conference. He said that conversation was held so he could get the facts about "that vital island."

Formosa, lying about 100 miles off the China mainland, is the seat of the expatriated Chinese Nationalist government. Its leader, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, has been reported to have between 250,000 and 500,000 troops there.

There have been many suggestions—notably by Gen. MacArthur, last year—that the Nationalist armies should be used on the mainland in a diversionary operation to draw off the Chinese Communist forces.

Reporting on the American forces in Korea, Eisenhower said: "It is the most splendidly clothed, cared-for army that I think we have ever put in the field  and I want to report right now that they are doing as fine a job as you people could possibly ask."

Armies Are Contrasted

However, he noted a contrast between this American army and the ones that went to Europe in World Wars 1 and 2. He said:

"It's a force that isn't the wise-cracking force of World War 11. It isn't the singing force of World War 1. But they are young men that know they're out there doing a serious jjob, and they're doing it without whining and without complaining."

He made special mention of the ROK (Republic of Korea) divisions: "For the competence and courage of the Republic of Korea's own fighting forces, so finely trained by Gen. James A. Van Fleet, I heard only the highest praise from all UN commanders. My own inspection of some Korean units completely confirmed this estimate. ROKs they are called and rocks they are."

He said he had seen some other United Nations units as well, and said "their combat records are worthy of their countries' proudest traditions." Eisenhower mentioned Australia, Belgium, Canada, Colombia, Ethiopia, France, Great Britain, Greece, the Netherlands, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand and Turkey. "They are fine soldiers all," he said.

With Respect to Future

With respect to the future, he made three points:

"First, the training of ROK forces can and should be expanded and speeded. This is my opinion and the unanimous opinion of the commanders on the scene.

"Second,  certain problems of supply have reached rather serious proportions, and require early correction.

"Finally, we must all recognize—in all our thinking and our planning—that the Korean war is but the most dramatic and most painful phase, for us at this moment, of our world-wide struggle against Communist aggression. This journey marks not the end but the beginning of a new effort to conclude honorably this phase of the global struggle."

John Foster Dulles, designate for secretary of state, told newsmen: "The general foreign policy was made at sea."

Dulles joined Eisenhower aboard the cruiser Helena in the run-in from Wake Island to Honolulu, and then flew with him from there to New York. Of the conferences, Dulles said:

"We talked at great length. But not of some things to be decided in 10 minutes. We laid the foundation for valuable policy for the coming years. The general foreign policy was made at sea. We made a team to work together."

No Other Statement

Dulles told reporters Eisenhower will make no other statement about his Korea trip.

Shortly after the general's arrival in New York, three appointments to posts in the Treasury Department were announced. They were:

H. Chapman Rose, 45, of Cleveland, O., assistant secretary of the treasury, to serve under Secretary-designate George W. Humphrey. Rose is a partner in the Cleveland law firm of Jones, Day, Cockley and Reavis.

W. Randolph Burgess, 63, of Hastings-on-Hudson, consultant and special deputy secretary of the treasury on debt management and monetary policies. He is chairman of the Executive Committee of the National City Bank of New York.

Marion B. Folsom, 59, of Rochester, under secretary of the treasury. Folsom is chairman of the board of trustees of the Committee on Economic Development. This is a private organization which advises the Treasury Department and other government agencies on economic matters.

He will be charged with particular attention to tax policies, James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, told reporters.

Harold E. Stassen, next Mutual Security administrator, had a 30-minute conference with Eisenhower this morning.

Stassen declined to discuss details of the meeting. He said it is premature to talk about amounts or policies in the Mutual Security Administration.

He said, however, he has conferred within the past few weeks with a number of business and financial figures including Paul Hoffman of the Ford Foundation, John McCloy, newly appointed chairman of the Board of Chase National Bank, W. Averell Harriman, present MSA head, Bernard Baruch, former President Herbert Hoover, and Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts.

PaddedRedTroops Capture ROK Post

Seoul, Dec. 15 (AP) — Chinese Reds struck through rain and snow today at three heights on the central Korean front, wresting one outpost from hard-fighting South Koreans.

The Chinese hit Pinpoint Hill, Rocky Point and outpost positions on the lower slopes of Triangle Hill. They overran two South Korean outposts in pitched battles, but counterattacking Republic of Korea (ROK) troops recaptured the larger one.

The most intense fighting was on the southeastern slopes of Triangle Hill where some 80 Chinese in padded uniforms charged out of the freezing night.

The attack started before midnight and lasted until dawn. The first wave swept over a minor outpost. The charge finally carried through the main outpost, but ROKs pushed the Chinese back just before daybreak.

175 Reds Attack

Allied warplanes damaged two MIG-15 jets in a flurry of 10 air battles over northwest Korea.

The MIGs came out of their Manchurian sanctuary for the first time in five days and clashed with U. S. F-86 Sabre jets in high altitude fights.

Fifteen U. S. Superforts Sunday night blasted a supply center and an ore processing plant in northwest Korea. The Kyomipo steel mill storage area southwest of Pyongyang and a Red Korean military headquarters near the capital city also were bombed.

Red color of meat is caused by the hemoglobin of the blood still present in the tissues.

Thruway Seeks Bids For New-Type Bridge

Albany, Dec. 15 (AP) — The State Thruway Authority said today it would accept bids on a new type of bridge to carry its super highway across the Hudson river between Tarrytown and Nyack.

The authority originally planned to use a 1,112-foot "tied arch" main span and a series of shorter spans to cross the three-mile Tappanzee section of the river.

However, no bids were received for the super structure work before today's deadline.

The authority said its engineers were drafting an alternate design for the bridge, to utilize a "cantilever trust" for the main span. It said this type of construction was simpler and could be handled by several contractors.

Appeal Is Dismissed

Ottawa, Dec. 15 (AP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today dismissed the appeal of Mrs. Arthur Pitre of Quebec from a murder conviction arising out of the time-bombing of an airliner Sept. 9, 1949. She is scheduled to be hanged Jan. 9. Two others already have been hanged for their part in the plot which sent 23 plane passengers to their deaths. J. Albert Guay, Quebec jeweler, was hanged Jan. 12, 1951, for the murder of his 28-year-old wife, Rita, a passenger on the plane. Motive was $25,000 insurance money and the love of a pretty waitress.

Electors to Cast

criticized electoral college system comes Jan. 6 when Congress meets to record the results, with the presiding officer of the Senate tolling off the electors' votes.

Many in Congress and out consider the present electoral system an out-moded relic of the past. This year's electors themselves are divided over whether it is archaic, or should be guarded against any newfangled changes.

Some Favor Popular Vote

Some believe the time has come to discard the college and let the nation's voters elect the President by popular vote.

Others favor retain the present system, but changing it to permit a split of electoral votes within states. At present, one candidate gets all a state's electoral votes even if he wins the state by just a handful of popular votes. The proposed change would work like this: If a state has 10 electors, and the popular vote was 600,000 to 400,000, one candidate would get 6, the other 4 electoral votes.

Both changes would require revision of the constitution, a complex process.

Neither change, however, would have made any significant difference in the present election because Eisenhower had more than six million more popular votes than Stevenson.

24 Would Like Change

An Associated Press spot sampling of electors in several states showed that among 38 who would be quoted, 24 favored a change of some sort, 12 wanted to retain the college as it is, and two recommended a study.

The actual voting will be done by the electors today at the capitals of their respective states.

The election still won't be official, however, until Jan. 6. On that day Congress meets in joint session and the president of the Senate has the votes counted.

Ballots Cast for Ike

Albany, Dec. 15 (AP) — New York's Republican electors, most of them urging modernization of the Electoral College system, formally cast the state's 45 ballots today for President-elect Eisenhower. Most of the electors said their function was "antiquated" but urged that the present setup be revised—not abolished. A few contended that a President should be elected by a direct, popular vote.

Eden, Acheson Confer

Paris, Dec. 15 (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden conferred unexpectedly today with U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson on an American move to break the deadlocked British Iranian oil negotions. The 50-minute meeting was described as "a useful talk." It had been billed previously for tomorrow. Prior to the meeting British informers had described Eden's attitude toward the American suggestions as cool.

Shorter Campaigns Asked

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—A plea for shorter national election campaigns was placed before the Republican party today. It came from the General Federation of Women's Clubs which adopted a resolution on the subject last May. Mrs. Oscar A. Ahlgren of Whiting, Ind., president, formally presented the request to Miss Bertha Adkins, director of the Women's Division of the GOP.

Firemen Are Called

Firemen were called at 8:34 p. m., Saturday to the store of Jacob Orkoff, 33 East Union street, where faulty control mechanism in an oil burner caused a fire scare.

Ike 34th President

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower, says the committee in charge of inauguration festivities, will be the 34th President of the U. S. Grover Cleveland served two terms separated by four years, so Eisenhower will be the 33rd man to be President. Government reference books list President Truman as the 33rd President, but the official program for his inauguration in 1949 called him the 32nd. Chairman Joseph McGarraghy of the Eisenhower-Nixon inaugural committee said yesterday the Jan. 20 program will list Eisenhower as the 34th President, "thus correcting the erroneous count."

Guards Kill

compounds. More than 300 prisoners were killed in the riots that followed.

On May 7 the Reds even seized Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd, Koje camp commander, and held him hostage for 78 hours.

Dodd's successor, Brig. Gen. Hayden L. Boatner, destored order, broke the bigger compounds, and moved all Chinese prisoners off Koje.

Sunday's mutiny involved reclassified Communist prisoners of war. All are Koreans, probably a mixture of both North and South Koreans who cling grimly to their Communist leadership. In the matter of repatriation, all have elected to return to Communist control.

The Pongam riot is certain to provoke a strong blast from North Korean Gen. Nam Il, senior Red delegate to the suspended Korean truce talks.

In the past, Nam unfailingly has lodged protests within a day or two after each such incident.

Witness Defies

man known as Red Stingaree, whose real name was not pronounced audibly, and an Adrews Finizio. Another frequenter of the club and restaurant was John Moody, a pier associate of Lorio, the witness said.

The witness testified in a heavy, steady voice.

De Vincenzo drew laughter at one point when an attorney for the commission asked him if Moody also was known as "Meatball."

"Yes," he is a meatball," said De Vincenzo, accenting the "is."

De Vincenzo said another associate of Borelli and Florio was John Di Robertis, an ILA business agent known as "Fifi."

The former longshoreman said Borelli had a hand in his firing, along with Florio.

He said that when he disagreed with Florio, "Jarka fired me at the request of Mike Borelli."

Plaque Is Unveiled

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—A plaque designating it as a Shrine of the Bill of Rights was affixed here yesterday to the St. Paul's Church (Episcopal), which figured in a newsman's colonial fight to maintain Quakers' voting rights. Participating in the ceremony was Dr. Francis Renalds, an official of the U. S. Department of the Interior, which made the designation. The plaque was unveiled by Miss Zoe Zenger Boden, a direct descendant of John Peter Zenger, publisher of "The New York Weekly Journal" in colonial days.

Coal Pyres

As long as 4,000 years ago, the people living in what now is Glamorganshire, Wales, used coal for funeral pyres, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Angry Parents End

dozers nearby on the construction job. A parent said he could operate the big machine. Then another driver was found and the bulldozers were "borrowed."

While the men toiled away—at times 150 strong—their wives kept up a steady supply of coffee and sandwiches. Several women even took a turn on the shovels, and others marched around the pit with signs.

The signs expressed the thoughts uppermost in everyone's mind. One read: "Your child may be next."

No One Interferes

A watchman on the construction job watched and said nothing. Neither did his employers. The police, too, kept away.

However, the owner of one bulldozer showed up in the afternoon and took it away, saying he had not authorized its use.

It grew dark but the parents toiled on, determined that their children would not be endangered by the pit again.

The Levittown fire department sent a truck with floodlights. Other townspeople parked their automobiles around the pit and trained the car lights on the excavation.

Shortly after midnight the work was done. The pit they called "Death Pond" was no more.

By throwing one into another, the parents had eliminated the sand pile which claimed the life of Stevie Estrin last Monday and the pond in which Charles Regenie had drowned on Friday.

Wood Case Adjourned

The hearing in Surrogate's Court in the case of the two alleged wives of Truck Driver Eugene Wood has been adjourned until 10 a. m. Monday, Dec. 22, by Surrogate Judge John B. Sterley. Wood was killed Sept. 30 in a collision at Paramus, N. J. Mrs. Anna Wood of Saugerties and Mrs. Jean Wood of Schagticoke each attempted to file suits in connection with Wood's death, and the matter was brought before the surrogates in Ulster and Rensselaer counties. Taking of testimony here began Monday, Dec. 8, and was adjourned until today. Today's session was adjourned by Judge Sterley prior to the scheduled time and no appearances were made.

PaddedRedTroops Capture ROK Post

Seoul, Dec. 15 (AP) — Chinese Reds struck through rain and snow today at three heights on the central Korean front, wresting one outpost from hard-fighting South Koreans.

The Chinese hit Pinpoint Hill, Rocky Point and outpost positions on the lower slopes of Triangle Hill. They overran two South Korean outposts in pitched battles, but counterattacking Republic of Korea (ROK) troops recaptured the larger one.

The most intense fighting was on the southeastern slopes of Triangle Hill where some 80 Chinese in padded uniforms charged out of the freezing night.

The attack started before midnight and lasted until dawn. The first wave swept over a minor outpost. The charge finally carried through the main outpost, but ROKs pushed the Chinese back just before daybreak.

175 Reds Attack

The Reds hit with a full company—about 175 men—on Pinpoint Hill, dominating height on Sniper Ridge. They pulled back before sunrise.

On nearby Rocky Point, the Reds hurled squad-sized assaults three times before calling them off at dark yesterday. The Eighth Army reported scattered patrol and probe contacts across the remainder of the battle front.

Big and Little Nori, where fighting raged for several days, was quiet.

Allied warplanes damaged two MIG-15 jets in a flurry of 10 air battles over northwest Korea.

The MIGs came out of their Manchurian sanctuary for the first time in five days and clashed with U. S. F-86 Sabre jets in high altitude fights.

Fifteen U. S. Superforts Sunday night blasted a supply center and an ore processing plant in northwest Korea. The Kyomipo steel mill storage area southwest of Pyongyang and a Red Korean military headquarters near the capital city also were bombed.

THE LITTLE PEOPLE'S CHRISTMAS — SADNESS IN THE TOY SHOP — By WALT SCOTT

Gets Facts on Formosa

Perhaps significantly, he listed "our military advisory representative from Formosa" as one of the officers with whom he had a conference. He said that conversation was held so he could get the facts about "that vital island."

Formosa, lying about 100 miles off the China mainland, is the seat of the expatriated Chinese Nationalist government. Its leader, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, has been reported to have between 250,000 and 500,000 troops there.

There have been many suggestions—notably by Gen. MacArthur, last year—that the Nationalist armies should be used on the mainland in a diversionary operation to draw off the Chinese Communist forces.

Reporting on the American forces in Korea, Eisenhower said: "It is the most splendidly clothed, cared-for army that I think we have ever put in the field  and I want to report right now that they are doing as fine a job as you people could possibly ask."

Armies Are Contrasted

However, he noted a contrast between this American army and the ones that went to Europe in World Wars 1 and 2. He said:

"It's a force that isn't the wise-cracking force of World War 11. It isn't the singing force of World War 1. But they are young men that know they're out there doing a serious jjob, and they're doing it without whining and without complaining."

He made special mention of the ROK (Republic of Korea) divisions: "For the competence and courage of the Republic of Korea's own fighting forces, so finely trained by Gen. James A. Van Fleet, I heard only the highest praise from all UN commanders. My own inspection of some Korean units completely confirmed this estimate. ROKs they are called and rocks they are."

He said he had seen some other United Nations units as well, and said "their combat records are worthy of their countries' proudest traditions." Eisenhower mentioned Australia, Belgium, Canada, Colombia, Ethiopia, France, Great Britain, Greece, the Netherlands, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand and Turkey. "They are fine soldiers all," he said.

With Respect to Future

With respect to the future, he made three points:

"First, the training of ROK forces can and should be expanded and speeded. This is my opinion and the unanimous opinion of the commanders on the scene.

"Second,  certain problems of supply have reached rather serious proportions, and require early correction.

"Finally, we must all recognize—in all our thinking and our planning—that the Korean war is but the most dramatic and most painful phase, for us at this moment, of our world-wide struggle against Communist aggression. This journey marks not the end but the beginning of a new effort to conclude honorably this phase of the global struggle."

John Foster Dulles, designate for secretary of state, told newsmen: "The general foreign policy was made at sea."

Dulles joined Eisenhower aboard the cruiser Helena in the run-in from Wake Island to Honolulu, and then flew with him from there to New York. Of the conferences, Dulles said:

"We talked at great length. But not of some things to be decided in 10 minutes. We laid the foundation for valuable policy for the coming years. The general foreign policy was made at sea. We made a team to work together."

No Other Statement

Dulles told reporters Eisenhower will make no other statement about his Korea trip.

Shortly after the general's arrival in New York, three appointments to posts in the Treasury Department were announced. They were:

H. Chapman Rose, 45, of Cleveland, O., assistant secretary of the treasury, to serve under Secretary-designate George W. Humphrey. Rose is a partner in the Cleveland law firm of Jones, Day, Cockley and Reavis.

W. Randolph Burgess, 63, of Hastings-on-Hudson, consultant and special deputy secretary of the treasury on debt management and monetary policies. He is chairman of the Executive Committee of the National City Bank of New York.

Marion B. Folsom, 59, of Rochester, under secretary of the treasury. Folsom is chairman of the board of trustees of the Committee on Economic Development. This is a private organization which advises the Treasury Department and other government agencies on economic matters.

He will be charged with particular attention to tax policies, James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, told reporters.

Harold E. Stassen, next Mutual Security administrator, had a 30-minute conference with Eisenhower this morning.

Stassen declined to discuss details of the meeting. He said it is premature to talk about amounts or policies in the Mutual Security Administration.

He said, however, he has conferred within the past few weeks with a number of business and financial figures including Paul Hoffman of the Ford Foundation, John McCloy, newly appointed chairman of the Board of Chase National Bank, W. Averell Harriman, present MSA head, Bernard Baruch, former President Herbert Hoover, and Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts.

Appeal Is Dismissed

Ottawa, Dec. 15 (AP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today dismissed the appeal of Mrs. Arthur Pitre of Quebec from a murder conviction arising out of the time-bombing of an airliner Sept. 9, 1949. She is scheduled to be hanged Jan. 9. Two others already have been hanged for their part in the plot which sent 23 plane passengers to their deaths. J. Albert Guay, Quebec jeweler, was hanged Jan. 12, 1951, for the murder of his 28-year-old wife, Rita, a passenger on the plane. Motive was $25,000 insurance money and the love of a pretty waitress.

Thruway Seeks Bids For New-Type Bridge

Albany, Dec. 15 (AP) — The State Thruway Authority said today it would accept bids on a new type of bridge to carry its super highway across the Hudson river between Tarrytown and Nyack.

The authority originally planned to use a 1,112-foot "tied arch" main span and a series of shorter spans to cross the three-mile Tappanzee section of the river.

However, no bids were received for the super structure work before today's deadline.

The authority said its engineers were drafting an alternate design for the bridge, to utilize a "cantilever trust" for the main span. It said this type of construction was simpler and could be handled by several contractors.

Electors to Cast

criticized electoral college system comes Jan. 6 when Congress meets to record the results, with the presiding officer of the Senate tolling off the electors' votes.

Many in Congress and out consider the present electoral system an out-moded relic of the past. This year's electors themselves are divided over whether it is archaic, or should be guarded against any newfangled changes.

Some Favor Popular Vote

Some believe the time has come to discard the college and let the nation's voters elect the President by popular vote.

Others favor retain the present system, but changing it to permit a split of electoral votes within states. At present, one candidate gets all a state's electoral votes even if he wins the state by just a handful of popular votes. The proposed change would work like this: If a state has 10 electors, and the popular vote was 600,000 to 400,000, one candidate would get 6, the other 4 electoral votes.

Both changes would require revision of the constitution, a complex process.

Neither change, however, would have made any significant difference in the present election because Eisenhower had more than six million more popular votes than Stevenson.

24 Would Like Change

An Associated Press spot sampling of electors in several states showed that among 38 who would be quoted, 24 favored a change of some sort, 12 wanted to retain the college as it is, and two recommended a study.

The majority of those favoring a change recommended election by popular vote.

The actual voting will be done by the electors today at the capitals of their respective states.

The election still won't be official, however, until Jan. 6. On that day Congress meets in joint session and the president of the Senate has the votes counted.

Ballots Cast for Ike

Albany, Dec. 15 (AP) — New York's Republican electors, most of them urging modernization of the Electoral College system, formally cast the state's 45 ballots today for President-elect Eisenhower. Most of the electors said their function was "antiquated" but urged that the present setup be revised—not abolished. A few contended that a President should be elected by a direct, popular vote.

Eden, Acheson Confer

Paris, Dec. 15 (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden conferred unexpectedly today with U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson on an American move to break the deadlocked British Iranian oil negotions. The 50-minute meeting was described as "a useful talk." It had been billed previously for tomorrow. Prior to the meeting British informers had described Eden's attitude toward the American suggestions as cool.

Shorter Campaigns Asked

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—A plea for shorter national election campaigns was placed before the Republican party today. It came from the General Federation of Women's Clubs which adopted a resolution on the subject last May. Mrs. Oscar A. Ahlgren of Whiting, Ind., president, formally presented the request to Miss Bertha Adkins, director of the Women's Division of the GOP.

Firemen Are Called

Firemen were called at 8:34 p. m., Saturday to the store of Jacob Orkoff, 33 East Union street, where faulty control mechanism in an oil burner caused a fire scare.

Ike 34th President

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower, says the committee in charge of inauguration festivities, will be the 34th President of the U. S. Grover Cleveland served two terms separated by four years, so Eisenhower will be the 33rd man to be President. Government reference books list President Truman as the 33rd President, but the official program for his inauguration in 1949 called him the 32nd. Chairman Joseph McGarraghy of the Eisenhower-Nixon inaugural committee said yesterday the Jan. 20 program will list Eisenhower as the 34th President, "thus correcting the erroneous count."

Guards Kill

compounds. More than 300 prisoners were killed in the riots that followed.

On May 7 the Reds even seized Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd, Koje camp commander, and held him hostage for 78 hours.

Dodd's successor, Brig. Gen. Hayden L. Boatner, destored order, broke the bigger compounds, and moved all Chinese prisoners off Koje.

Sunday's mutiny involved reclassified Communist prisoners of war. All are Koreans, probably a mixture of both North and South Koreans who cling grimly to their Communist leadership. In the matter of repatriation, all have elected to return to Communist control.

The Pongam riot is certain to provoke a strong blast from North Korean Gen. Nam Il, senior Red delegate to the suspended Korean truce talks.

In the past, Nam unfailingly has lodged protests within a day or two after each such incident.

Witness Defies

man known as Red Stingaree, whose real name was not pronounced audibly, and an Adrews Finizio. Another frequenter of the club and restaurant was John Moody, a pier associate of Lorio, the witness said.

The witness testified in a heavy, steady voice.

De Vincenzo drew laughter at one point when an attorney for the commission asked him if Moody also was known as "Meatball."

"Yes," he is a meatball," said De Vincenzo, accenting the "is."

De Vincenzo said another associate of Borelli and Florio was John Di Robertis, an ILA business agent known as "Fifi."

The former longshoreman said Borelli had a hand in his firing, along with Florio.

He said that when he disagreed with Florio, "Jarka fired me at the request of Mike Borelli."

Plaque Is Unveiled

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—A plaque designating it as a Shrine of the Bill of Rights was affixed here yesterday to the St. Paul's Church (Episcopal), which figured in a newsman's colonial fight to maintain Quakers' voting rights. Participating in the ceremony was Dr. Francis Renalds, an official of the U. S. Department of the Interior, which made the designation. The plaque was unveiled by Miss Zoe Zenger Boden, a direct descendant of John Peter Zenger, publisher of "The New York Weekly Journal" in colonial days.

Coal Pyres

Angry Parents End

dozers nearby on the construction job. A parent said he could operate the big machine. Then another driver was found and the bulldozers were "borrowed."

While the men toiled away—at times 150 strong—their wives kept up a steady supply of coffee and sandwiches. Several women even took a turn on the shovels, and others marched around the pit with signs.

The signs expressed the thoughts uppermost in everyone's mind. One read: "Your child may be next."

No One Interferes

A watchman on the construction job watched and said nothing. Neither did his employers. The police, too, kept away.

However, the owner of one bulldozer showed up in the afternoon and took it away, saying he had not authorized its use.

It grew dark but the parents toiled on, determined that their children would not be endangered by the pit again.

The Levittown fire department sent a truck with floodlights. Other townspeople parked their automobiles around the pit and trained the car lights on the excavation.

Shortly after midnight the work was done. The pit they called "Death Pond" was no more.

By throwing one into another, the parents had eliminated the sand pile which claimed the life of Stevie Estrin last Monday and the pond in which Charles Regenie had drowned on Friday.

Wood Case Adjourned

The hearing in Surrogate's Court in the case of the two alleged wives of Truck Driver Eugene Wood has been adjourned until 10 a. m. Monday, Dec. 22, by Surrogate Judge John B. Sterley. Wood was killed Sept. 30 in a collision at Paramus, N. J. Mrs. Anna Wood of Saugerties and Mrs. Jean Wood of Schagticoke each attempted to file suits in connection with Wood's death, and the matter was brought before the surrogates in Ulster and Rensselaer counties. Taking of testimony here began Monday, Dec. 8, and was adjourned until today. Today's session was adjourned by Judge Sterley prior to the scheduled time and no appearances were made.

★ A Company Is Known By the Customers It Keeps!

In glancing over our books of the past 20 years we find many, many customers who have employed us ever since we started in the business of Roofing and Roof Repairs, Gutters, Siding Installation, and the sale of such materials.

This indicates that we're "well-known," and we are justly proud of it. It also means that our continuous efforts to bring you a Job Well Done, has "paid-off!" When you need the services of a reliable roofing establishment — we are as near as your telephone, and just as dependable!
